Crest passes; levee holds

Monroe County's misfortune may prove fortunate for upriver communities, including the Granite City area, according to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The Mississippi River topped levees near Columbia and Harrisonville and the resulting flooding relieved pressure on the upriver levees and ended projections of a 51-foot river crest.

The Corps announced Monday that the river apparently crested at 49.43 feet Sunday morning — almost 19½ feet above flood stage and the highest level in recorded history.

By Monday afternoon, the river had dropped more than a foot to 48.3 feet — a drop the Corps attributed entirely to the Monroe County flooding. The levee failures flooded more than 60,000 acres in three Monroe County levee districts.

A fourth levee district in Monroe County opened some of its flood gates Monday in a gamble that controlled flooding in some areas of the district will relieve the pressure on the levees and save the remainder of the area protected by the district.

The river level was at 48 feet Tuesday morning and apparently dropping. It had held steady at that level since about 10 p.m. Monday.

"I hate to see that happen to anyone, but it looks like Monroe County's bad luck could be good news for us," said Shang Greathouse, president of the Metro East Sanitary District. "The idea of the river hitting 51 feet scared me to death, but it looks like the worst is past and we're on the downhill side now."

The dropping river means the McKinley Bridge in Venice may reopen this week, said Tyrone Q. Echols, acting bridge manager. The bridge was closed Friday night as a safety measure when debris began collecting on a partially submerged non-load-bearing crossmember that is normally well above the river surface.

Echols said there has been no apparent damage to the bridge and that, if inspections bear out that assessment, the bridge could reopen as soon as the river level drops below the crossmember — about 47 feet. The Corps projection Tuesday morning was for the river to hit 47 feet on Friday.

"Juneau and Associates (a Granite City engineering firm) is making a video inspection today (Monday) to send to our engineers at Hardesty and Hannover in New York," Echols said. "We should know for sure when we should be able reopen after Hardesty and Hannover review the video tape."

The city of Venice, which owns the McKinley Bridge, is heavily dependent on the bridge revenue. Echols said the city will lose the revenue from the weekend, but only because the bridge's insurance

Contributions from readers total $144,000

Thousands of Journal readers, in an outpouring of concern for their neighbors, are assisting people who have been victimized by the Great Flood of '93.

As of Monday, more than 5,500 people had sent contributions to the Salvation Army Operation Noah's Ark Flood Relief effort by using special envelopes that were inserted in last week's Journal.

About $144,000 has been donated by Journal readers.

Overall, the Salvation Army has collected $1,356,959 in Operation Noah's Ark.

Contributions, which still are badly needed, can be made by using the special Journal envelope, or can be sent to: Suburban Journals, Operation Noah's Ark, c/o Commerce Bank, P.O. Box 17447, St. Louis, 63178-7447.

Lewis & Clark revisited

Group celebrates famous journey

By Martin Richter
Staff writer

They've come by airline and automobile rather than by keelboat, horseback and canoe. But about 180 people have ventured to this area from all corners of the United States for the 25th annual meeting of the Lewis & Clark Trail Heritage Foundation Inc.

The annual meeting is being held now through today at the Collinsville Holiday Inn.

This year's national meeting is being hosted by the Lewis & Clark Society of America Inc., based in Wood River.

Included among the activities are day trips of historic interest to places like Cahokia Mounds, the Jarrot Mansion and Cahokia Courthouse, Fort de Chartres and Fort Kaskaskia; a French dinner and colonial dance at the Gateway Center; and the premiere of a new play about the famous journey, "Bitterroot," at Lewis & Clark Community College.

Also on the agenda for the national meeting is a trip to "Site No. 1," the site

Ashing request is denied

By Shay Wessol
Staff writer

Despite Rowena Ashing's statements that she made an irrational, fear-based decision to plead guilty to the first-degree murder of Thomas Bauer, a judge Monday denied a motion to dismiss the plea bargain.

Third Circuit Judge J. Lawrence Keshner said Ashing's initial decision in June to accept the plea bargain was voluntary and not forced or coerced.

"This was one of the more knowledgeable pleas that any defendant has entered into," Kesher said before ruling against the motion.

Ashing's sentencing hearing is set for Aug. 11.

Under the terms of the plea baragin, Ashing, 39, could receive a maximum of 60 years in the federal penitentiary for allegedly masterminding Bauer's murder. Bauer was pronounced dead nearly a year ago after being beaten with a skillet, strangled with a belt and his body doused with gasoline and set afire at his home in Granite City.

Her attorney, special assistant public defender Rand Hale, will ask for a 20-year sentence.

Both Ashing and Hale told the court that she felt "coerced" into accepting the plea because of the state's decision to seek the death penalty if she was convicted by a jury.

Hale said Ashing was emotionally upset by the state's announcement, which came four days before the plea, and made an "inappropriate" decision.

"I'm not guilty," Ashing told the court. "I took the plea because I didn't think they were going to cut me any slack. He's (assistant state's attorney Robert Trone) going after me with everything he's got...with the zeal of a Viking going into war."

Ashing questioned repeatedly why the four other defendants in the case were not threatened with the death penalty. She maintained her earlier criticisms that she was being treated unfairly by the state.

"I don't know if he's (Trone) going after me with such zeal because I'm a woman or because I'm allegedly the only one (of the five defendants) with

Journal's Big Tomato Contest is here again

It may be hot and it may be humid, but the first of August in the Metro East does have its benefits.

Homegrown tomato season is in full swing. And that means it's time for the Press-Record/Journal's third annual Big Tomato Contest.

Bring your biggest homegrown tomato in to our office over the next three weeks, and we'll weigh it in.

Each week, we'll give $10 to the person who brings in the largest homegrown tomato.

No repeat winners are allowed. And contestants must sign a form saying they did indeed grow the tomato.

Entering is easy: Simply show up during regular business hours at the Press-Record/Journal office, 1815 Delmar, with your homegrown tomato.

We'll announce the first weekly winner in next Wednesday's newspaper.

The first week's contest ends Friday at 2 p.m. And tomatoes brought in after that time will be entered in the following week's competition.

Steelworkers' strike is averted

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

With less than 12 hours remaining before an existing contract expired, negotiators for National Steel and the United Steelworkers of America reached a tentative agreement early Saturday morning.

Paul Aldridge, director of USWA District 34, said the tentative six-year pact was reached at 12:30 a.m. July 31.

Union members and company officials here were prepared for the worst.

The existing contract was set to expire at midnight July 31, and union members had voted last week to authorize a strike in the event an new agreement could not be reached.

A temporary fence was built around the Granite City Division last week, and company security and the Granite City Police Department had prepared plans to coordinate security around the premises.

The USWA represents about 1,900 workers at Granite City Steel and about 4,400 workers at National Steel facilities in Michigan and Indiana.

Details of the agreement were not disclosed, pending presentation of details to the membership.

An informational meeting with local steelworkers, members of USWA Locals 16, 30, 67, 68, 4063 and 9325 in Granite City, is scheduled for Aug. 12 at the AMVETS Hall in Madison, Aldridge said.

He said members will vote on the proposed contract by mail ballot. Ballots must be received in Pittsburgh by 2 p.m. Aug. 20.

Officials had been negotiating since March 1. Talks were unsuccessful at that time, temporarily halted in April, and resumed in Detroit in early June, Aldridge said.

"It's been a long, long five months," he said.

Robert Sims following her, woman says

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

A 24-year-old Pontoon Beach woman who was a key witness in the Paula Sims murder trial says that Sims' former husband has been following her.

Paula Sims is currently serving a life term in prison for her murder conviction in the April 1989 death of 6-week-old Heather Sims. Her former husband, Robert Sims, is employed at the Village Green Mobile Home Park in Pontoon Beach, Pontoon Beach Police Chief Chet Ballew said.

Ballew and Granite City Assistant Police Chief Dave Ruebhausen both confirmed Monday that Stephanie Werner, who was a hospital roommate of Paula Sims in 1989 and testified during the murder trial, has reported incidents in which she believes Robert Sims was following her.

"We've had a couple of reports," Ballew said.

"We stopped him on Lake Drive Thursday, near the (Werner Chapel funeral home) and informed him that the state's attorney will investigate any reports that he is stalking (Werner), as we were told to do," Ballew said.

He said that Werner recently reported that Robert Sims had followed her on Highway 111, and that the report was forwarded to Madison County State's Attorney Bill Haine's office.

"She said she was returning to the funeral home from 84 Lumber and that (Robert Sims) was sitting at a vacant lot. When she turned (onto Highway 111), he pulled in behind her. She pulled over and he went by. Then she got behind him and reported the incident on a car telephone," Ballew said.

Ruebhausen said the alleged incident in Granite City, which was reported June 24, was treated as a "general incident" and not as a criminal offense.

"We did have a complaint from a woman involved in the Paula Sims trial, but investigation revealed no foundation for criminal charges. We have had no related reports since that time, and Robert Sims is not a suspect in any criminal case we are investigating," Ruebhausen said.

He said that a copy of the report was sent to Haine's office and that any future incidents will be forwarded.

"We are under the same instructions as Pontoon Beach," he said.

Mighty Mississippi takes Monroe County

By Michelle Strickland
Staff writer

The worse has happened in the Monroe County flood plain — two levees gave way to the mighty Mississippi River over the weekend.

On Sunday, between 8 a.m. and 9 a.m. the Columbia levee breached in two different locations washing away houses and farms.

The Harrisonville levee in the area of Fountain Creek broke after water from the Columbia levee breaks began topping the Harrisonville levee at 10:15 p.m. Aug. 1.

"The water was considered out of control and the levee breached at 1:15 a.m. (on Aug. 2)," said George Riebeling, coordinator of the county's Emergency Service and Disaster Agency.

By 1:15 a.m. on Aug. 3, the entire county flood plain, including Valmeyer, Harrisonville and Fults was under water, said county commissioner Robert Rippelmeyer.

According to a news release from the ESDA, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, levee district officials, the Illinois National Guard and volunteers worked all day Sunday "shoring up the weak areas" on the Harrisonville levee with rock and sandbags. They "frantically" worked to raise the levee to 51 feet "to contain the rush of water from the adjoining Columbia levee," the release said.

The county's levees were built to 50 feet, Corps officials said. The Harrisonville levee protects everything south to Valmeyer and on to the Monroe/Randolph county line.

Rippelmeyer said 2,500 residents living in the flood plain are affected by the flooding. He said the entire flood plain, consisting of 75,000-80,000 acres, is flooded due to the levee breaks.

"It (the river) did the job it set out to do," said county commissioner Don Dietz. "It's at rest now."

When he flew over the flooded Village of Valmeyer, Rippelmeyer said houses and the school were quickly filling up with.

"There's water all over (Valmeyer)," Rippelmeyer said. "Roofs of houses are barely sticking out (of the water)."

There are 900 people who live in Valmeyer.

On Monday, there was 6-8 feet of water reported in Valmeyer.

He said Valmeyer is expected to have as much as 10-12 feet of water in it. The flood plain in the Columbia area has 12-15 feet covering it, Rippelmeyer said.

Weather officials said on Aug. 2 the water level was at 48.6 feet.

Drug, firearm felony charges

Two Madison County residents have been named in felony warrants issued by Madison County State's Attorney William Haine.

Don D. Dawson, 31, of the 1900 block of Grand Avenue in Granite City, was charged with unlawful possession of cannabis with intent to deliver.

Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois agents allege that Dawson possessed more than 500 grams of cannabis on June 3. Bond was set at $75,000.

Bobby T. Samuels, 21, of the 900 block of Niedringhaus Avenue in Granite City, was charged with aggravated discharge of a firearm.

Granite City police allege that Samuels shot his firearm in the direction of an occupied building in Granite City. Bond was set at $40,000.

any brains," Ashing said.

Earlier Monday, Jeffrey L. Ramsey, 25, also asked to reverse his guilty plea before Keshner, citing "ineffective" representation by assistant public defender Tyler Bateman.

Keshner scheduled a hearing for next week on the request.

Under his plea arrangement, accepted in February, Ramsey would receive a maximum of 55 years in jail in return for his "truthful testimony" in the matter. Ramsey could have received natural life in prison if convicted by a jury.

"Circumstances being as they were at that time, I agreed to the plea," Ramsey told the court. Later, he said, "sources on the outside" said several of his witnesses had not been subpoenaed to appear at his trial.

Bateman reiterated earlier statements that he had represented Ramsey to the best of his ability, but did not argue the motion and asked to be removed from the case. He did not comment on his actions.

Joe Brown was appointed to serve as Ramsey's attorney during the hearing on the motion to withdraw his plea.

Another public defender will be appointed to defend Bateman after that.

FEMA flood applications required

Illinois flood victims must file an application with the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to qualify for federal and state assistance, disaster recovery officials said.

"Some people who registered for Red Cross help may not be aware that a separate application is required for government disaster assistance," according to Walter Pierson, FEMA Federal Coordinating Officer.

He urged anyone from the 25 counties declared a disaster area, who has uninsured losses to his or her permanent home, personal property or business, to register for aid. Applications can be made by calling the toll-free hotline, 1-800-462-9029.

"Operators can provide information about assistance and can complete an application by phone," Pierson said.

Declared counties are Adams, Alexander, Boone, Calhoun, Carroll, Greene, Hancock, Henderson, Henry, Jackson, Jersey, Jo Daviess, Lake, Madison, McHenry, Mercer, Monroe, Pike, Randolph, Rock Island, St. Clair, Stephenson, Union, Whiteside and Winnebago.

Police probe alleged threat by shop owner

Roger Wallace says a Pontoon Beach auto repair shop owner put a gun to his head and threatened to kill him last week after Wallace began to drive off in his own car.

Wallace, 28, of Granite City is also upset by what he says is the village police department's failure to take his complaint seriously.

But Police Chief Chet Ballew said Monday that he has taken Wallace's complaint "very seriously," but that, since there was no gun found at the repair shop and no witnesses to the alleged incident, no arrest could be made.

Wallace said the owner of an auto repair shop in the village forced Wallace out of his car at gunpoint Friday after Wallace got in the car to drive home.

"He put a gun to my head and said, 'Get out or I'll blow your head off,'" Wallace said.

Wallace said he then got out of the car and walked to a nearby pay telephone, where he called 911. When police arrived, the owner denied having a gun and no action was taken, Wallace said.

"He told them he didn't have a gun on the premises and they said they couldn't do anything," Wallace said.

Ballew said that an investigation into the allegation continued Monday morning, but turned up little evidence.

"There was no weapon found at the scene at the time and there were no witnesses to the incident," Ballew said.

"An employee confirmed that he heard yelling, but didn't see anything.

"The owner of the shop does own a gun, but just because you own a gun doesn't necessarily mean you pointed it at somebody," Ballew said.

He said Wallace "demanded" that the owner be arrested on the spot.

"It's not that we're treating (Wallace) unfairly. It's just that there is no proof that a crime was committed," Ballew said.

Wallace said the shop had worked on the car earlier in the week. He said his wife had picked it up earlier Friday and paid $350 for the work. However, the owner told her that extra work had been done and the charge would be $500 instead of $350, Wallace said.

At that point, the owner agreed to let the Wallaces pay the remainder on Tuesday, Wallace said. Wallace's wife drove the car home, but left another vehicle on the repair lot.

The trouble started, Wallace said, when he drove out with his brother-in-law to pick up the truck later Friday. Wallace said he was in the car and ready to leave when the owner of the shop approached and threatened him.

Wallace said Monday that he had paid the additional $150, which he said was for "unauthorized repairs," and gotten his car back.

He also said he had gone to the Madison County State's Attorney's office to file charges against the shop owner.

Man arrested after alleged robbery of local woman

Some people just seem to naturally make good criminals. Thomas E. Hairston of Maryville doesn't appear to be one of them.

The 35-year-old Hairston, of the 800 block of Patty Drive in Maryville, was arrested on a recent evening after he allegedly grabbed a woman as she entered her car, robbed her of $3 and then tried, unsuccessfully, to give it back.

Hairston was charged on Monday with unlawful restraint and battery. Bond was set at $20,000.

Collinsville Police Sgt. Ron Borkowski gave the following account of the incident:

A Granite City woman left her job at a downtown Collinsville business at about 5:45 p.m. Friday, and went to her car, parked on a lot at 115 E. Main St.

"She opened her car door, and the suspect grabbed her from behind and spun her around," Borkowski said. "She lost her balance and fell to the front seat of her car.

"He held his right hand out of view so she though he had a weapon, although he never displayed a weapon.

"He told her 'Look, I don't want to hurt you, but I got to feed my family. Give me all the money you've got,' " Borkowski said.

Hairston then allegedly grabbed the woman's purse, and she promptly grabbed it back, Borkowski said.

Hairston reportedly said "Don't do this to me," to the woman, who told him she would give him what money she had, and handed him $3.

"He looked at the $3 and told her 'Look, I know I scared you very badly. I don't even have a weapon,' " Borkowski said. "He tried to give her the $3 back. He said ~~he~~ didn't want the money.

"She slammed the (car) door and rolled the window up," Borkowski said.

The woman drove away and reported the incident, and Hairston was arrested after he was sighted on foot about a block away, Borkowski said. He said the victim positively identified Hairston.

To aid motorists, bus fare eliminated

The Madison County Transit District announced Monday that all bus service throughout the county will be free until further notice to help ease highway congestion caused by the flood.

Motorists can take the bus to the Metro Link station in East St. Louis and avoid the long delays expected during rush hour traffic, said Jerry Kane, managing director of the transit district.

The free-fare routes include all Bi-State and Madison County service in the county.

"We have two main problems for motorists," Kane said Monday. Those problems involve closed bridges over the Mississippi — the McKinley Bridge at Venice and the Lewis and Clark Bridges at Alton.

Express and commuter buses on the west side of Madison County had to be rerouted because of road closures, Kane said. The rerouting includes these buses: the 530 McKinley Bridge, 531 Pontoon Limited and the 532 Granite City Limited.

Transit officials hope to ease some of motorists' concerns about which roads are closed and which are open by allowing them to use public transit free of charge, Kane said. Officials will be stationed at the Metro Link terminal to guide travelers to the correct trains into the city.

Also, because of the closure of Illinois 3 in East Alton, a temporary shuttle between Eastgate Plaza on Route 3 in East Alton and the Metro Link station in East St. Louis began Monday to supplement the Godfrey and Alton Expresses.

The free-fare rides will be offered until further notice, with the Madison County Transit District absorbing the cost, Kane said.

"This action is being taken to encourage people to use public transit and reduce the severe congestion that is occurring as a result of this disasterous flood," Nelson Hagnauer, chairman of both the county board and the transit district, said in a press release.

Madison approves $2.7 million appropriation

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Madison approved a $2,740,592 appropriation ordinance at a special City Council meeting Friday with a bare quorum of aldermen.

Only four aldermen and Mayor John Bellcoff — the minimum needed to take action — attended the meeting. Absent were aldermen Eleanor Armour, John Hamm, Mike Vrabec and Ed Newsome.

The appropriations are for the fiscal year that began May 1 and will end April 30, 1994. City attorney Casper Nighohossian said the ordinance does not list the expected revenue or its sources. He said the revenue breakdown will be available when the city establishes its tax levy in the fall.

The total department appropriations approved and some highlights within each department are:

For the old Chain of Rocks Bridge, owned by the city, $100 total for property tax.

For buildings, $96,000 total, including $40,000 for electricity and gas and $50,000 for renovation at City hall.

For the city clerk's department, $7,490 total, including $3,900 for salary and $2,400 for car expenses.

For the executive department, $52,290 total, including $28,800 for salaries, $5,000 for car expenses, and $15,000 for management consulting.

For the legislative department, $37,260 total, including $12,800 for salaries, $20,000 for car expenses and $4,460 for convention expenses.

For the comptroller's department, $46,530 total, including $27,000 for salaries, $2,500 for office supplies, $5,000 for telephone service, $2,500 for data processing, and $1,500 each for photocopying, postage and printing.

For contingencies, including accidents, claims and unforeseen matching funds not included in the appropriation, $25,000 total.

For emergency service and disaster, $2,800 total, including $1,800 for salaries and $1,000 for equipment maintenance and repair.

For the fire department, $173,100 total including, $63,000 for salaries and overtime, $1,600 for pensions, $6,000 for linens and uniforms, $1,500 for motor fuels and lubrications, $2,000 for technical supplies, $1,000 for medical supplies, $5,000 for building maintenance, $50,000 for licensed vehicles, $11,000 for repairs and $20,000 for machinery and equipment.

For the health and humane department, $14,050 total, including $10,750 for salaries, $1,000 for supplies and $800 for vehicle repair.

For the legal deparment, $51,740 total, including $24,500 for salaries, $20,000 for legal services, $3,600 for secretarial service and $3,000 for publications.

For the industrial park, $70,000 total for real estate taxes.

John Bellcoff

For the personnel department, $182,000 total, including $180,000 for premiums for health, accident and life insurance and $2,000 for the Senior Aide program.

For the Police Department, $547,125,000 total, including $425,700 for salaries and overtime, $17,000 for motor fuels and lubrication, $6,000 for telephone service, $15,000 for vehicle maintenance and repair, $5,200 for repair and modification of radios and technical equipment, $35,000 for licensed vehicles, $9,000 for police training, $6,200 for investigations, $5,000 for equipment, $6,500 for uniforms, $3,000 for

Venice OKs $2.1 million in spending

The Venice City Council approved a $2,096,513 appropriation ordinance Saturday — the deadline for appropriations.

The ordinance covers the fiscal year that began May 1 and ends April 30, 1994. The aldermen unanimously approved the appropriations in a special meeting Saturday morning. Aldermen Henry Fletcher, John Henry Williams and Michael Terrell did not attend.

The total appropriation and some highlights for each department are:

For streets and alleys, $313,840 total, including $61,500 for salaries including overtime, $8,160 for materials, $15,700 for fuel, oil and grease for the trucks, $6,200 for tools and supplies, $5,000 for equipment maintenance and repair, $13,740 for the mechanic salary, $5,500 for replacement equipment, $5,500 for new equipment, $6,000 for utilities, $26,000 for extra labor, $50,000 for licensed vehicles and $105,000 for street resurfacing and repairs.

For the police department, $423,400 total, including $324,900,000 for salaries and

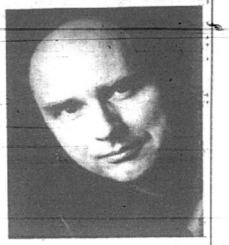
Local Pulitzer Prize winner coming here for book signing

Robert Olen Butler, Granite City native and winner of the 1993 Pulitzer Prize for fiction, will sign copies of his Pulitzer Prize winning book, "A Good Scent from a Strange Mountain," at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Granite City Public Library District Branch, 2145 Johnson Road.

In addition to the book signing, there will be a reading by Butler and a question-and-answer period.



Robert Olen Butler

Butler, a 1963 graduate of Granite City Senior High School, was student body president, member of the National Honor Society, and active in a variety of school activities. He earned a bachelor's degree from Northwestern University and a master's degree from the University of Iowa.

He entered the Army in 1969 and spent a year learning Vietnamese. After becoming fluent in the language, he was sent to Vietnam, where he worked as administrative assistant and translator for the American foreign service officer advising the mayor of Saigon.

Butler has had seven books published, four of which were influenced by his Vietnam experience: "The Alleys of Eden," "On Distant Ground," "The Deuce," and "A Good Scent from a Strange Mountain."

Granite City served as the inspiration for his novel, "Wabash," which was set in a Midwest steel town.

Butler said, "I fell in love with the Vietnamese and Vietnam, and that love helped me love my own hometown, an Illinois steel mill city near St. Louis, and helped sensitize me to the minds and hearts of every person and the sensual allure of every place I've encountered since."

"A Good Scent from a Strange Mountain," a collection of short fiction, also has earned Butler a Guggenheim Fellowship and has been named a Notable Book by the Notable Books Council of the American Library Association.

Discounted copies of the paperback edition of the book, published by Penguin Books, will be available for sale at the branch library during the book signing.

Currently, Butler is teaching creative writing at McNeese State University in Lake Charles, La. His parents, Robert Butler Sr. and Lucille Hall Butler, were long-time residents of Granite City but now also live in Lake Charles.

His father taught drama at Granite City Senior High School and St. Louis University. His mother was known for her art works. Butler's aunt, Betty Fay Vaughn, lives in Granite City. His latest novel, "They Whisper," will be published next January.

73,000 in Alton area may be without water for 2 weeks

Now comes the tough part.

Waves of residents were rushing to stockpile water Monday from eight distribution points in Alton and Godfrey after the surging Mississippi River overtook the Illinois-American Water Co. plant on the Great River Road Sunday afternoon.

Officials said it will be at least two weeks before water service is restored to the company's 73,000 customers.

"We have to pump nearly 40 feet of water out of the plant," company President Ray Lee said. "Then we'll install dry pumps. We hope to have service restored within two weeks."

A boil order will be enforced when the plant is on again "until we're sure the water is safe to drink," Lee said. He would not estimate how long that could be.

Illinois-American officials Monday were attempting to link the company's waterlines with an industrial water supply as they worked to get the plant back on line.

"If we succeed, we'd be able to supply some water for sanitary use but not for drinking," Lee said.

In the meantime, residents were being urged to use stored water to flush toilets, but only twice a day.

Waves of water churned up by heavy thunderstorms Saturday night battered the plant's levees, Lee said.

"Some of the waves were 4 feet high," he said. "We worked for weeks to reinforce our wall. The waves and wind were too much."

Company officials realized their worst nightmare when the river took out a sandbag levee about 1 p.m. Sunday, sending rushing river water into portions of the plant and filling both exterior settling basins.

Many residents were angry Sunday while getting bulk water at the Alton Square distribution site. The company had issued an emergency boil order and urged residents to store water prior to the levee break. Many said they felt that was not much notice.

"The key to the whole situation was (that) the mayor (Bob Towse) and the water company kept saying, 'Everything is fine; everything is going to be fine,' " said Mick Rolando of Alton. "They should have let us know all along that this was a possibility. They acted like it would never happen.

"I think they knew the water was going to exceed what they built down there (at the plant)."

But company spokesman Wayne F. Schlosser said the company did everything possible to hold back the water and did not pull the wool over residents' eyes.

"The heavy rain (Saturday) did not help our situation," he added.

A small electrical fire broke out at the plant shortly after the levee breach, but it was extinguished quickly by the Alton Fire Department.

Residents need not fear a lack of fire protection, Assistant Chief Bill Bellitto said. The department's six operating pumpers carry 500 gallons of water and Amoco Oil Co. and Shell Oil Co. have loaned the department 8,000-gallon and 4,000-gallon tankers, respectively.

The city also has two storage tanks holding 2 million gallons that can be used to refill the tankers if necessary. The final option would be using river water, Bellitto said.

"We don't have any real concerns about fighting a fire," he said. "Our response time won't be any different, we just won't have the fire hydrants."

When answering a call, the department will dispatch one of the two tankers at the Twichell Memorial Fire House along with the necessary pumpers. The tanker will be parked nearby to refill the pumpers.

"I'll have a man riding with the tanker truck to stay in radio communication," Bellitto said. "In the event we have a delay, I'll just ring another alarm."

In Alton, residents are urged to bring their own containers to water distribution sites. Volunteer disaster coordinators at Alton Square and Central Hardware on Homer Adams Parkway have about 400 one-gallon jugs.

Edgar seeks jobs funds for flood victims

Gov. Jim Edgar said he has asked U.S. Secretary of Labor Robert Reich to approve $10 million in additional Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) funds to help provide short-term jobs for Illinois workers temporarily unemployed due to flooding.

"Initial information from the Army Corps of Engineers indicates that the catastrophic flooding has already forced hundreds of Illinois businesses along the Mississippi River to shut down," Edgar said. "As the floodwaters continue to rise and move southward, more and more businesses and their employees will face similar situations.

"The workers temporarily displaced from their regular jobs need another source of income to provide for their families, and the communities suffering from flood damage need workers to help with clean-up, repairs, food service and other assistance. The funds I am requesting will help us fill both needs by setting up special programs to put the displaced workers back to work in temporary public service jobs."

Jan M. Grayson, director of the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA), said Title III of the Job Training Partnership Act allows states to request funds from the Secretary of Labor's national reserve to launch emergency program in counties declared disaster areas by the President.

"The primary purpose is to assist with community repairs and clean up," Grayson said. "These jobs have a maximum duration of six months. We want to help communities get back to normal as soon as possible so businesses can resume normal operations and people can go back to work at their regular jobs."

Metro Link puts commuters on rails

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

With the opening Saturday of the Metro Link light-rail line, St. Louis once again is a trolley-car town.

However, these sleek trolleys don't crowd onto traffic-packed city streets. They travel over designated rights of way and reach speeds of 55 mph.

Whether Metro Link will entice commuters to park their cars and climb aboard the new transit system — which eventually will run from East St. Louis, Ill., to Lambert-St. Louis International Airport — is the $351 million question. That's how much it cost to build the light-rail line.

Critics such as former County Executive H.C. Milford question estimates that 17,000 passengers will ride Metro Link every day within a year, and that 37,000 people will ride the rails by the year 2000.

Executives of the Bi-State Development Agency are confident those goals will be reached. In fact, Bi-State has redesigned its bus lines to transfer some riders onto Metro Link. Several express bus lines drop off commuters at Metro Link stations, where passengers wait a maximum of 7½ minutes to catch a ride downtown.

It costs riders $1 to board a bus or Metro Link and 10 cents for a transfer.

New routes that loop through the stations will improve "reverse commuting" (workers heading for jobs in the suburbs) and suburb-to-suburb service, Jack Leary, Bi-State executive director, has said.

As a bonus, the revised bus network costs less to operate, thus freeing funds to operate Metro Link. Those savings will be enough to operate the light-rail line through February, Leary said.

Bi-State has applied for a $10 million federal grant to pay for Metro Link operations through June 1994. Bi-State anticipates receiving the grant by Dec. 31.

Meanwhile, Bi-State executives, civic leaders and mass-transit proponents are lobbying the Missouri General Assembly to adopt a statewide sales tax earmarked for transit systems.

Voters in St. Clair County will vote Nov. 2 on a proposed half-cent sales tax to help finance extending Metro Link from East St. Louis to Scott Air Force Base.

Metro Link's first leg, the East St. Louis-to-Lambert line, won't be complete until next summer. Construction through the Washington Park Cemetery can't begin until the task of relocating graves is completed.

While critics point to the cemetery situation as evidence that Metro Link is a white elephant, the line's designers note that their original route alignment skirted north of the cemetery. The airport's expansion plans forced Metro Link through the cemetery and led to the construction delay, they say.

Metro Link in brief

Route: 18 miles from East St. Louis to Lambert-St. Louis International Airport.

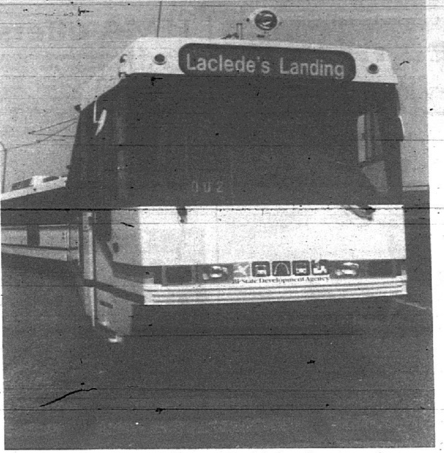
Number of stations: 19; park-and-ride lots adjacent to six stations have room for 2,000 cars.

Construction cost: $351 million; $345.6 million from the federal government and $5.5 million from Lambert airport.

Annual operating costs: $10 million.

Cost of a ride: $1; fare is 50 cents for children, people ages 65 and older, and people with disabilities.

Hours of operation: 5:30 a.m. to 12:30 a.m. daily.



Metro Link, St. Louis' long-awaited light-rail system, began operating on Saturday.

Frank's Experts Talk About

Transplanting

Relocate your plants successfully!

FRANK'S
NURSERY & CRAFTS
Where Beautiful Things Begin

Transplanting of plants is done for any of a number of reasons. It can be like re-arranging the furniture; people get tired of the same thing in the same place all the time.

Has one of the shrubs gotten a little too big? Would it look better in the back of the yard? Maybe your kids have become more athletic and that shrub that was in a nice safe place a few years ago is now precariously close to a newly created home plate.

Whatever your reason for transplanting, there are a some things you should keep in mind when moving plants from one place to another.

Perhaps you've tried this procedure before and failed miserably. You carefully dug up that beautiful flowering shrub and replanted it. Slowly but surely, the plant's beauty faded into oblivion. What was left would be better suited for a fireplace than a garden.

Why does this happen? It's simple. If you don't do it right, you're inviting failure. Here are a few tips on transplanting. If you follow them, you'll have healthy, happy plants anywhere you put 'em.

If you can transplant when the plant's small, so much the better. The smaller the plant, the easier it will be for you, and the quicker it will recover from the operation. This is beginning to sound more like something done in a hospital than in your yard!

Adequate soil around the roots is important. A plant that is moved carefully, with as much soil as possible, has a better chance of survival. Not so much soil that you'll develop a hernia by lifting it, but just enough to keep both you and the plant healthy.

Keep the roots moist at all times! Allowing the roots to dry while the plant's out of the ground is handing your plant a death sentence.

Don't allow the plant to remain out of the ground any longer than necessary. And while they're out in the open, they should not be exposed to wind or sunlight.

When you dig the plant up, cut the least amount of roots as you possibly can. The roots supply nourishment to the rest of the plant, and if you remove some of them, the plant's not going to get the same amount of nourishment it was getting before.

Here's a good rule when transplanting trees and shrubs: Cut them back by about a third. With some shrubs, this is easy, but removal of branch growth from a beautiful, perfectly symmetrical tree may not appeal to you. But, experts agree and experiments have shown that you should stick to this rule if you want quick recovery of the tree.

If you don't, the tree may look perfectly okay at the start, but it'll soon start to go into a relapse. You'll see poor foliage, poor growth and maybe even a dead branch or two. If it's going to recover at all, it can take years.

On the other hand, if the tree was properly pruned at the onset of the operation, it will be well on the way to a speedy recovery because it has sufficient roots to support the amount of growth left on the top.

Follow these simple steps and anything you transplant should not only survive, but lead a long, healthy life.

First ticket sold — Granite City Mayor Ron Selph buys the first ticket to a benefit car wash for flood victims. From left are Ed Hagnauer, Firefighters Local 253; Mayor Selph; Ken Crawford, AFSCME Local 1347; Chuck Lewis, Teamsters Local 525 and Gary Clark, Operating Engineers Local 525. City employees from every department and management throughout the city will be washing cars and trucks on August 14, at the main fire house, 2300 Madison Ave. from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Price are $5 for cars and $8 for trucks and vans. All proceeds will be divided between the Salvation Army and the Red Cross. Canned goods and non-perishables may also be donated that day at the fire house.

FEMA offers temporary mobile homes

Families displaced by the flood selected for the mobile home temporary housing option began occupying FEMA mobile homes on Wednesday, July 28, federal and state disaster recovery officials said.

Deputy Federal Coordinating Officer Al Hahn said the first mobile home was occupied near Dallas City.

Currently, other families are being identified for mobile homes to be located in commercial mobile home parks. Families are being notified as their homes are ready.

Meanwhile, Hahn advised anyone who has received disaster housing assistance to call the Information Hotline if they cannot find a place to rent.

"If you have received a housing assistance check from FEMA, but you cannot locate a suitable place to rent, call the Information Hotline so we can help," Hahn said.

The Information Hotline number is 1-800-820-1125. Hours are 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Hahn noted that FEMA is prepared to place as many families as necessary in mobile homes, but only when necessary.

"FEMA considers mobile homes to be the last option for providing temporary housing for disaster victims. Both FEMA and families generally prefer to use housing grants to make their homes livable if the house was not heavily damaged," Hahn said.

New spay assistance program set

The Madison County Humane Society announced a new program, the Spay Neuter Assistance Program, that began Aug. 1. The SNAP program will offer financial assistance to people who are on limited incomes to encourage them to spay or neuter their companion animals.

Cindy Kuschel, treasurer of MCHS, will oversee the program. Kuschel says, "The killing of unwanted dogs and cats is not an acceptable solution to the pet overpopulation crisis. It is a tragedy that must stop. The solution is as simple as spaying or neutering."

For more information on the program, call Kuschel at 288-9723. To contribute to the SNAP fund send donations to: SNAP, MCHS, P.O. Box 1, Edwardsville, Ill. 62025.

19 of Governor's 20 legislative proposals are approved

Secretary of State George H. Ryan applauded legislators for enacting proposals that included a major funding program for libraries, sweeping lobbyist reform and a tough new carjacking law.

Ryan's legislative agenda was completed with enactment of a $257.8 million appropriation for the secretary of state's office, up 2.6 percent from last year.

The spending authority provides funding for Ryan's "Live & Learn" program, which will permanently increase state support for libraries by nearly 60 percent when fully implemented. It also includes $2 million for an organ donor awareness program.

Of 20 initiatives Ryan offered this spring, 19 won approval by the General Assembly. All were adopted by overwhelming margins, several unanimously.

"A great deal of the credit goes to the General Assembly and its leaders," Ryan said. "With the cooperation of legislators, we have passed bills of significance in virtually every arena in which this office operates."

The only Ryan bill failing to pass was his call for lowering the illegal limit for drunk driving from a .10 percent blood-alcohol concentration to .08. However, legislators endorsed an alternative plan by Ryan to hold statewide hearings on the issue later this year.

In addition to funding "Live & Learn," Ryan's Fiscal Year 1994 appropriation also will let him honor union-negotiated pay increases, continue manufacturing license plates and keep all drivers license facilities open.

"We've cut, gone without and done more with less since I took office in 1991," Ryan said.

"This year's budget maintains a tight rein on office operations. But it also sets aside new revenue to address the needs of Illinois libraries and the hundreds of Illinoisans desperately in need of donated organs."

Gov. Jim Edgar signed the "Live & Learn" legislation recently. It will raise $33 million a year, including $19 million for libraries, $2 million for organ donation awareness and $12 million for office operations.

The new revenue will be generated from increases in two vehicles fees paid when someone buys a new or used car or truck. The fee for transferring a license plate, last raised in 1969, would go from $2 to $12. The fee for generating a vehicle title would go from $5 to $13.

Other bills, now awaiting the governor's signature, include:

* Designating carjacking as a district crime and providing tougher penalties for carjacking than for armed robbers. Ryan's proposal provides no probation for carjackers, guaranteeing that they would spend time behind time behind bars.

* Adding muscle and broad new disclosure requirements to Illinois' 1969 lobbying law, which Ryan has described as the nation's weakest.

For the first time, lobbyists would be required to report all expenditures related to lobbying legislators, constitutional officers and their top administrators.

Far more people would be required to register as lobbyists. Additionally, the scope of reportable activities would be broadened beyond legislation to include efforts to influence action in such areas as contracts, purchasing and rule-making.

* Protecting the privacy of Illinois residents by restricting the release of personal information from driving and vehicle records. The measure would also let people keep mass mailing companies from obtaining their addresses through secretary of state records.

* Winning permanent extension of the mandatory insurance law, which had been scheduled to expire on Dec. 31. The law also was refined to focus scrutiny on previous offenders and to streamline enforcement.

* Cracking down on teen drunk driving by suspending the drivers license of any minor ticketed for illegal transportation of alcohol. A related measure would require a minimum $500 fine or 50 hours of community service, preferably with an alcoholism prevention or treatment program, for anyone caught with a fake drivers license or identification card.

* Closing a loophole in driving under the influence law giving judges freedom to continue a suspension hearing when the arresting officer is not in court. Under current law, the charges would be dismissed.

This initiative was a top priority for anti-DUI groups, who believe it will stop defense attorneys from scheduling hearings when they know the arresting officers can't attend.

Big bash will open new Clark Bridge

GODFREY — Floods haven't dampened the enthusiasm of a group planning to throw a yearlong party for the opening of the new Clark Bridge.

Fireworks, a parade, a regatta and thousands of people will come together in December to celebrate the opening.

The Clark Bridge Dedication Committee announced its plans to about 20 people during a 90-minute meeting Thursday night.

The dedication ceremony is tentatively set Dec. 1, but high water has slowed construction and may delay the opening date.

The committee was formed to put together a celebration that will draw attention to the area, and the River Bend Growth Association is working to make the new bridge a selling card for businesses and home buyers.

"The bridge can be a catalyst for change and an opportunity to ... get things going up again," Telegraph Publisher and Steering Committee member Don Miller said.

There will also be a memorial service to honor the old bridge before it is demolished.

"For years this old bridge has been belittled, criticized, ostracized and made fun of. Many of those it served have forgotten or never learned of or appreciated the major role it has played in their lives," committee member Nick Maggos said.

The memorial service will pay tribute to the 65-year-old bridge and highlight its importance to the economic well-being of the community for six decades.

"What would the River Bend be like today if the old bridge had never been built? The answer is, we would be living in a stagnant economic backwater environment with all the curses that would bring," Maggos said.

Pride Inc. is also working to beautify public and private property near the new bridge approach.

A landscaping plan is being developed by horticulturist Paul Owens, and people will have a chance to offer their comments at a public meeting at 7 p.m. Aug. 31 in City Hall.

"Our second objective is to beautify private property from Washington (Avenue) to Williams Street and from the riverfront to Fourth Street," Pride Executive Director Jack Barban said.

He and others are working on a list of voluntary standards for property owners in the area.

And the dedication committee is working with several area organizations to use their yearly events to showcase the region.

"We're trying to get people over here and get them throughout the River Bend," said Jack Helmkamp, who is co-chairing the committee.

Updates on information for those affected by flood

Here are some flood-related updates:

Because of the flood, the Internal Revenue Service has announced an extension for taxpayers who are unable to file employment tax returns due today.

Daniel L. Black Jr., district director of the Springfield IRS office, said taxpayers will not have to pay penalties if they file the employment tax by Oct. 15.

Those affected should write "Flood Disaster" and the name of their county on the return form.

The National Association of Independent Insurers is offering tips for filing flood-related claims.

Although flood insurance is provided by the federal government, it is often administered through private insurance companies, so flood victims should report any damage to their agent or insurance company.

The independent insurers offers some other tips:

Don't throw out damaged furniture or other items, because the insurance adjuster will want to see them.

Make lists of damaged items, and put together a set of records, such as receipts, bills and photographs.

Identify the structural dam age to your home and make a list of everything you would like the adjuster to see.

Heartworm disease is expected to increase in dogs living in flood areas after the waters recede, according to the Illinois State Veterinary Medical Association.

The disease is spread by mosquitoes that breed in stagnant water left by the floodwaters.

The disease attacks the heart and areas of the lung. Dogs should be tested immediately and receive preventive medication, the organization recommends.

Illinois Central Railroad is having no problems because of flooding, even though its tracks run parallel to the Mississippi River to New Orleans.

The company has accommodated about 150 trains from other railroads.

'Music Man' will open here Friday

Nine local families are performing together in Summerstage's latest production, "The Music Man."

One of America's best-loved musicals, "The Music Man," concerns the story of Harold Hill, salesman and con man, and how he is reformed by the love of a good woman, Marian, the librarian.

Hill is played by George Cochran, whose son, Ryan, is also in the production. The John Buxton family is well represented with John Sr. and Carol, who is playing Myrtle Hobbit.

Nancy Connolly (Alma Hix), has both her children, Ashlee and Willi, in the show. Kiki Supp (Mrs. Paroo) and her daughter, Amanda, represent another local family. The entire Moenster family is in the show. Dad Jack (Charlie Cowell), his wife Dora (Mrs. Gibbons), and son Ryan (Winthrop). The Lerch sisters, Suzanne and Lindsay, as well as Dustin Wilkinson (Tommy Kjilas) and his sister, Natasha Mangiaricino, are two other families in the production.

The family connection is not restricted to the cast. A daughter, Amy (Amaryllis), is in the show as is Rogera Mefford, associate director/musical director. Her daughter, Winona Mefford, plays Ethel Tofflemeier.

"The Music Man" will be performed at the Summerstage Playhouse, 2906 Pershing, Aug. 6, 7, 8, 13, 14 and 15 at 7:30 p.m. each night. Tickets are $6 and may be ordered by calling the Summerstage Playhouse at 451-1032.

Briefly

GCHS orientation Aug. 17

Granite City High School will host freshman orientation for incoming students and their parents on Tuesday, Aug. 17.

Students whose last name begin with "A" through "L" will attend a session starting at 6 p.m.

Students whose last name begin with "M" through "Z" will attend a session starting at 8 p.m.

Both sessions will be held in the high school auditorium.

Early pregnancy class set

The obstetrics department at St. Elizabeth Medical Center is offering a series of maternity classes entitled, Early Pregnancy, for women less than six months pregnant.

The classes will provide information on nutrition, exercise, breast conditioning, how a woman's body changes during pregnancy, and how the fetus develops.

The class will meet two Mondays, Aug. 23 and Aug. 30, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., in the OB Solarium, on the second floor of the Doctor's Wing.

The fee for the class is $5. Space is limited, so registration is required. To register call 798-3040 by Aug. 18.

Parking is available in the visitors' lot, accessible from Washington Ave., and in the parking garage on 21st Street.

Flood relief concert set

A flood relief benefit concert will be held at 7:30 p.m. tonight (Wednesday) at the Granite City Township Hall, 2060 Delmar Ave.

Sponsors of this event are Output Unlimited, Granite City Township Supervisor Nelson Hagnauer, KXEN Praise Radio 1010 AM, Breese Bike, and For the Record Productions.

The performing artists will be High Call, a Belleville area singing group; Pamela Caffery and Marianne Leighton, an Arnold-Valley Park group; and Jim Smothers, a singer and musician from the Granite City area.

All services and time are being donated.

The money collected will be divided between the Salvation Army and the American Red Cross. Checks should be made payable to the organization of choice.

Eleanore Hobson

Eleanore Alegra (Graf) Hobson, 79, of Granite City, died at 2:39 p.m. Monday, Aug. 2, 1993, at her residence, after being ill for several months. She was born Sept. 23, 1913, in Granite City, where she had been a lifelong resident.

She was a shipping clerk at Granite City Steel Co. for many years prior to her retirement in 1976; and a member of Home Extension, Granite City.

Survivors include one daughter, Janet Kief of Albuquerque, N.M.; one brother, Orrin Graf of Orlando, Fla.; and one sister, Lillian Gregory.

She was preceded in death by her husband, William A. Hobson, who died in 1985; her parents, Julius and Mary (Trautner) Graf; two brothers; and two sisters.

Arrangements are pending at Irwin Chapel, 3960 Maryville Road, Granite City, 931-8000. Burial will be at Sunset Hill Memorial Estates, Glen Carbon.

near Hartford where Lewis and Clark camped during the winter of 1803-04 at Camp DuBois.

George Arnold of Edwardsville, president of the Lewis & Clark Society of America, said work is under way on plans for an interpretive center and a replica of Camp DuBois at Site No. 1. Government agencies own more than 200 acres at the site.

Arnold said the events at the annual meeting are not limited to members of the Lewis & Clark Trail Heritage Foundation.

"Because of the floods, we've had lots of people cancel out, so we do have plenty of room for registration," Arnold said. "We'd be delighted if people would sign up."

For information on the annual meeting, contact program chairman M. Joseph Hill of Edwardsville at 656-6805.

James Comer of Collinsville, who is vice president of the Lewis & Clark Society of America, said members of the local and national groups are interested in commemorating Lewis and Clark's famous journey, and in learning more about it.

"We have one member who is a direct descendant of one of the members of the expedition, and others are interested in the history of this area," said Comer, who is a former history teacher himself.

"The people who come are generally people for whom this is kind of a hobby," Comer said. "Most of them that I've met are kind of high-grade amateur historians. They really know a great deal about the expedition, and many of them have traveled the trail."

In 1803, President Thomas Jefferson asked Capt. Meriwether Lewis and William Clark to lead an exploratory expedition to find a practical land-water route to the Pacific.

After spending the winter at Camp DuBois, the party left St. Louis on May 8, 1804, and eventually reached the Pacific Ocean at present day Seaside, Ore., on Sept. 7, 1805.

Doerr said he is pleased that a walkout was avoided.

"We are pleased that we were able to reach an agreement in time to avoid any stoppage in work. That's certainly in the best interests of both the company and its employees, as well as our customers, suppliers, shareholders and the communities in which we have plants and offices," Doerr said.

USWA President Lynn Williams said the pact "builds upon past achievements and creates new directions that will set the pace for American labor and management relations into the next century."

National Steel and USWA have been working under a cooperative partnership agreement since 1986, and Aldridge said the proposed agreement contains "a lot of breakthroughs," including expanded union involvement in the company decision-making process."

Aldridge did not deny reports that the agreement allows for a USWA member to sit on the National Steel board.

Prior to the settlement, workers had said that both the union negotiating committee and the company had tentatively agreed on the issues of salary and job security — two of the union's highest priorities — and that major issues of contention included health care benefits and funding of pensions.

The issues of contention were reportedly raised as a result of a recent agreement between a single local of the USWA and Inland Steel in East Chicago, Ind.

That agreement provides for a "managed care" health care program under which employees receive reduced benefits if they choose to utilize a health care provider outside of the participating "network" of providers. Under the Inland agreement, workers pay a $150 deductible ($250 for family coverage), and then pay 10-20 percent of the next $3,000 in expenses.

Steelworkers said that such a program would cost them at least $600 more per year out-of-pocket.

Workers also said that National Steel negotiators were asking for a single, flat dollar multiplier for all members participating in the pension program.

The union took the position that pensions should be related to earnings before retirement, workers said.

They also asked that the company set up a fund for the specific purpose of funding health costs of retired workers, they said.

The company currently pays for retiree health care costs out of its treasury.

has a 72-hour deduction.

"I was good timing for us because the traffic is light on the weekend and first of the week anyway. The big losses would be at the middle and end of the week and, if we're still closed then, the insurance will pay," Echols said.

Echols said the insurance "is not cheap" and its expense had come under fire in recent years.

"I'm glad now we've been paying all that money for insurance," he said.

Greathouse said residents of the MESD should "take a close look at the Monroe County situation to see what happens when a levee district loses the battle."

The MESD is responsible for protection of about 63,000 acres and Greathouse said a major levee break with the river above 47 feet would put almost every acre under water.

"Five years ago, before the voters approved the tax increase and we started our rehabilitation project, we would have been the first levee district to go," Greathouse said. "My house would be sitting in 10 feet of water right now. I just thank God the voters supported us."

Fighting the flood has been very expensive for the MESD, but when the water finally goes down Greathouse said he expects the fight for the district's share of emergency funding may be just as tough.

"We've spent whatever it takes to stay dry," Greathouse said. "But I've been at this long enough to know I'm going to end up screwed. They're going to look at us and ask, 'Why do you need money? Your levees didn't break.'

"It's a heck of a thing. Because we spent the money and did our job right nothing happened and, since nothing happened, people think we don't deserve any money."

Career advisers offer tips on getting that elusive pay hike

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

In this era of limited salary increases, it's still possible to bag that elusive prey, the pay raise. So say local career and personnel advisers.

The key to taking home a fatter paycheck is convincing the boss you've grown in the job, taken on more responsibilities or made or saved the company money, the advisers say.

Moreover, in reviewing your contribution to the company's success, you'll be assessing your worth as a worker, whether your career track is proceeding as planned or if it's time to apply your talents elsewhere.

The salary outlook isn't entirely bleak. Corporate America has told surveyors that pay boosts of 4 percent to 4.5 percent are planned this year. That's in line with recent history, says Sandra O'Neal, of the Clayton office of Towers Perrin, a management consultant.

Not all employers can afford higher labor costs. Northwest Airlines, for example, recently sought a hefty wage concession from its mechanics.

Pay raises higher than the 4 percent norm are possible and quite possibly warranted.

"The best opportunity to ask for a raise is after you've accomplished a successful project," says Tony Lane, group vice president at Drake Beam Morin, a Creve Couer outplacement firm.

Timing is everything when seeking a pay raise. Americans are accustomed to annual performance review, a look-back at the employee's work over the last 12 months. If the boss doesn't raise the issue of pay during a review, an employee should ask him or her if it is customary to discuss merit increases, Lane says.

Be prepared to detail your contributions, to justify a climb up the salary scale.

"It's called blowing your own horn," says James Wolf, vice president of Human Resource Management Corp., an executive recruiting firm in Brentwood.

Your pitch for more money should show you are performing above and beyond the average employee, beyond the scope of job description, Wolf says.

When making your case, bring along your personal personnel file, Lane says.

Reviewing the material in the file and then deciding whether a pay raise is in order is the first step in career adviser Anna Navarro's five-step process toward a pay hike.

Next, perhaps most important, is market value, data on pay scales, says Navarro, the founder of Work Transitions, a south St. Louis company that helps workers shift into new careers.

If your salary is at or above the market, "there's little argument for a pay raise," Navarro says.

The third step: If a fatter paycheck is warranted, put together a presentation that details the reasons you should be paid more. Then rehearse your presentation.

"The key thing is have a positive, upbeat tone," she says. A threatening, angry tone "is deadly" to prospects for a raise and to continued employment.

Navarro's fourth step: Deliver your pay-raise pitch as rehearsed.

Finally, if a salary boost isn't offered or you feel you've been treated unfairly, start searching for a new job — but don't tell the boss.

BARGAIN HUNTING???

SINCE ADVERTISING IN THE YELLOW PAGES, LINDA PEPPER'S ROOFING COMPANY HAS HAD ONE PEAK EXPERIENCE AFTER ANOTHER.

©1993 DonTech
Linda Pepper, Bash-Pepper Roofing, Champaign, Illinois.

Ah, life at the top.

It hasn't always been that way, however, for Linda Pepper of Bash-Pepper Roofing in Champaign, Illinois.

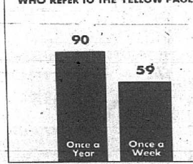
But things just couldn't be better since Linda started advertising in the Ameritech PagesPlus® The Yellow Pages.

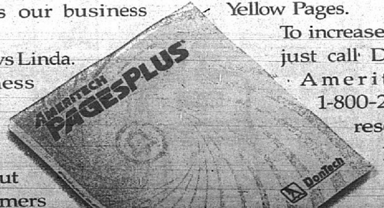
"We started with fairly good-sized ads. Then we added color and positioned them first under the roofing category. With every improvement in our ads our business improved, too."

Coincidence? Not so, says Linda.

"I tracked my business growth on my computer and found that not only new customers were calling from my ads, but current and repeat customers as well. At one point, over 50% of our calls were coming in from the Yellow Pages. Business, as you might guess, has been, well, through the roof."

Success like Linda's isn't surprising, or uncommon, when you consider the strengths of the Yellow Pages. A recent survey, for example, shows 90% of all adults refer to the Yellow Pages at least once a year. And in a typical week, 59% of all adults use the Yellow Pages.





To increase your business like Linda, just call DonTech, publisher of the Ameritech PagesPlus®, at 1-800-252-8932. A local area representative will be glad to help you design your ad and provide you with Money$avers® couponing.

"With the Yellow Pages, things just keep looking up. They're a great investment."

JAMMIN'

By Janice Denham
Staff writer

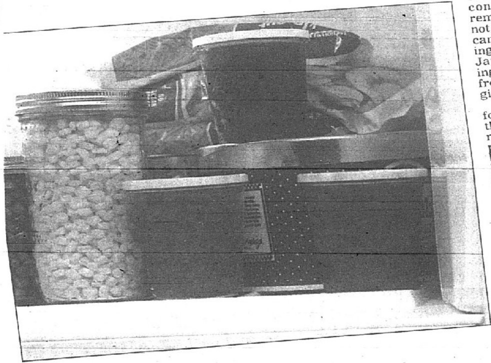
Bright, beautiful and flavorful, frozen fruit jams conveniently stash the best of summer's bounty for an English muffin, toasted oatmeal bread or a croissant on a day when fresh peaches, plums and berries arrive from another hemisphere.

The reasons for freezing fruit jam are as numerous as the fruits available. A heavy pot, a modest amount of fruit, a package of powdered pectin, a little time and a few airtight jars suffice. The ingredient list is simple and short. Instructions are easy.

Use jars and lids that are clean and safe. Remember that freezing causes food to expand. That is why jars to be used in the freezer have a straight or slanted side with a wide neck, so food can move safely to the top of the jar without being constrained and bursting the container. It also makes removal easy when the jam is not completely thawed. They can be small or large, depending on how the jam will be used. Jars of homemade jam, including those that come from the freezer, make welcome winter gifts.

Pectin is a natural substance found in some fruit that boosts the gelling process of jam to make it foolproof. Packaged pectin has a "use by" date for best results. Fully ripened fruit has less pectin, so some fruit can be a little less than fully ripe with good results, too. Because freezer jam is not cooked, the fruit's color stays bright and rich, and its texture after freezing is agreeable, too. The end product does need to be refrigerated for short storage, so its coolness offsets a freshly toasted bagel or muffin excellently when it is served.

Keep them in the coldest part of the freezer for a taste of freshness later in the year.



Peach freezer jam

2¼ cups crushed peaches (about 2 lb.)
2 tbsp. lemon juice
4½ cups sugar
1 pkg. (1¾ oz.) powdered pectin
¾ cup water

Prepare freezer jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Combine peaches and lemon juice in large bowl. Stir in sugar. Let stand 10 minutes. Combine pectin and water in small saucepan. Boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Cook pectin with fruit mixture, stirring constantly, 3 minutes.

Carefully ladle jam into freezer jam jars, leaving ½-inch head space. Adjust caps. Let stand at room temperature until set, not to exceed 24 hours. Label.

Store in freezer.

Yields about five (8-ounce) jars.

Red raspberry and blackberry freezer jam

2 pt. red raspberries, crushed
1 pt. blackberries, crushed
½ medium orange with peel, ground
4½ cups sugar
1 pkg. (1¾ oz.) powdered pectin
¾ cup water

Prepare freezer jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Combine raspberries, blackberries and orange in large bowl. Stir in sugar. Let stand 10 minutes.

Combine pectin and water in small saucepan. Boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Cook pectin with berry mixture, stirring constantly, 3 minutes.

Carefully ladle jam into freezer jars, leaving ½-inch head space. Adjust caps. Let stand at room temperature until set, not more than 24 hours. Label.

Store in freezer.

Yields about seven (8-ounce) jars.

Peach-berry freezer jam

1 cup crushed peaches (about ½ lb.)
1 cup red raspberries (about 1 pt.)
1 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
2 tsp. vanilla
3½ cups sugar
½ cup corn syrup
1 pkg. (1¾ oz.) powdered pectin
¾ cup water

Prepare freezer jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Combine peaches, raspberries, lemon juice and peel and vanilla in large bowl. Stir in sugar and corn syrup. Let stand 10 minutes.

Combine pectin and water in small saucepan. Boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Cook pectin with fruit mixture, stirring constantly, 3 minutes.

Carefully ladle jam into freezer jars, leaving ½-inch head space. Adjust caps. Let stand at room temperature until set, not to exceed 24 hours. Label.

Store in freezer.

Yields about five (8-ounce) jars.

Blueberry and blackberry freezer jam

1½ cups crushed blackberries
1 cup crushed blueberries
1 tbsp. lemon juice
½ tsp. coriander
3½ cups sugar
½ cup corn syrup
1 pkg. (1¾ oz.) powdered pectin
¾ cup water

Prepare freezer jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Combine blackberries, blueberries, lemon juice and coriander in large bowl. Stir in sugar and corn syrup. Let stand 10 minutes.

Combine pectin and water in small saucepan. Boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Add pectin to fruit mixture and stir constantly 3 minutes.

Carefully ladle jam into freezer jars, leaving ½-inch head space. Adjust caps. Let stand at room temperature until set, not more than 24 hours. Label.

Store in freezer.

Yields about six (8-ounce) jars.

COOLIN' IT

The freezer is better than a favorite pet. It gets rid of leftovers — but saves them for later. There is no better use for it than preserving summer fruits and vegetables.

Bags of frozen foods at the supermarket are flash-frozen, usually as close to the field where they are grown as possible. This is the philosophy to follow at home. The fresher the food when it is put in the freezer, the better it will taste next winter, so extras — in large or small quantities — that will not be eaten should not be left to wilt. Freeze them right away.

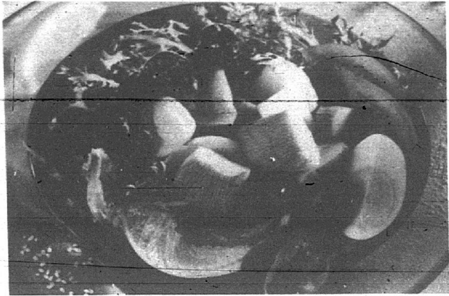
Here are some other tips for moving food from the garden or market into the freezer:

- Work with small quantities at a time to prevent loss of quality and nutrients. Rinse food several times in cold water and lift it out of water, rather than letting it soak.
- Use fresh, firm-ripe fruits of good quality. Remove bruises, pits and skins.
- Fruits like peaches, apples, pears and apricots darken quickly when exposed to air and during freezing. To minimize this, ascorbic acid (vitamin C) can be used on cut edges. It is available with canning supplies in the supermarket. Some people dip it in lemon juice.
- Although small berries, like blueberries and raspberries, are best frozen whole without sweetening, many people prefer to freeze other fruits the same way so they can have a wider range of uses next winter. To do this, spread the fruit on shallow trays and freeze until just firm. Longer exposure to freezer air results in lower quality. Package quickly, allowing as little air in the package as possible, and return to the freezer.
- To freeze with sugar, add about ¾ cup sugar to 1 quart prepared fruit, mixing carefully to avoid crushing.
- The best way to preserve vegetables in the freezer is to blanch them. Use 1 gallon boiling water per pound of prepared vegetable. Dip the vegetable in a wire basket into the boiling water so it continues to boil. Cover the pot and begin counting blanching time with the boiling water. The vegetable should be removed immediately from the boiling water, then dipped in a large quantity of constantly cold water the same amount of time to stop the cooking. Iced water can be used. Drain vegetables thoroughly, lay in a single layer in the freezer until just frozen, then pack tightly and return to the freezer.

Most vegetables can be blanched 3 minutes in hot, then 3 minutes in very cold water. This timing works for green or waxed beans, lima beans, broccoli flowerets no more than 1½ inches across, small heads of Brussels sprouts, cauliflower about 1 inch across, okra, snow and snap peas and bell pepper. Small whole carrots should be counted for 5 minutes; sliced or cut in sticks, carrot takes 2 minutes. Corn on the cob can be blanched 4 minutes, cooled, drained, then cut off the cob immediately and frozen. Cauliflower, broccoli and Brussels sprouts should be soaked in a brine of 4 teaspoons salt to 1 gallon water for 30 minutes before blanching to remove friendly bugs.

- Crystals on frozen food are from contact with air, which contains moisture. When the temperature fluctuates in a freezer, frost appears. Waxed paper crumbled into the air space may help minimize this.

Smart cook holds passport for vacation from cooking



Have a smart vacation from cooking. Fix Seafood Louis in less than 30 minutes, put it in the refrigerator and go read a book until it is time to eat.

Ever have one of those days when you want to trade in an apron for a lawn chair and a glass of lemonade? Summertime can have that effect.

Even if the cook's motivation wanes with summer humidity, these cool seafood salads stir an interest in the little preparation it takes to prepare them.

Surimi (imitation crabmeat) seafood is the secret of their appeal. This innovative product gets its name from an ancient Japanese process for mincing, preserving and forming fish into a variety of seafood products that are flavored to taste like crab, lobster, scallops or shrimp. Found in the refrigerated, frozen or seafood section of a supermarket, it can be bought in a variety of styles.

Because surimi is precooked, it is an ideal choice for summer meals and light appetites. Its mild, slightly sweet flavor adapts easily to a variety of recipes and seasonings. It has a mere 85 to 90 calories per 3½-ounce serving, and is less than 2 percent fat, making it a healthy choice for lunch, brunch or dinner.

In a garden salad, fresh green beans are lightly steamed and tossed with pasta, ripe olives, green onion, surimi and freshly grated parmesan cheese and mixed with a convenient prepackaged dressing mix with a few fresh herbs.

Caesar salads are popular among Americans. The classic ingredients of the traditional Caesar salad — Romaine lettuce, croutons and parmesan cheese — are tossed with the seafood. A pungent garlic dressing — a mixture of Dijon mustard and Worcestershire sauce rather than anchovies — can be made quickly and safely in an electric blender.

Seafood Louis is an impressive main-dish salad that can be prepared within 30 minutes. This version calls for seafood surrounded by hard-cooked eggs, tomato wedges, ripe olives and lemon slices. The traditional dressing is a mixture of mayonnaise, chili sauce, green pepper, onion, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce.

Garden seafood pasta salad

½ lb. fresh green beans, snapped
1 pkg. Italian salad dressing mix
3 tbsp. finely chopped fresh or 1½ tsp. crushed dried basil
3 tbsp. finely chopped fresh or 1½ tsp. crushed dried oregano
1 pkg. (12 oz.) uncooked corkscrew pasta
1 pkg. (8 oz.) chunk-style surimi seafood
⅓ cup sliced ripe olives
½ cup freshly grated parmesan cheese
2 tbsp. sliced green onion

Cook pasta according to package directions. Drain.

Place beans in large skillet. Add enough water to cover bottom of pan. Bring to boil. Cook, covered, 2 minutes. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water.

Prepare salad dressing mix as directed on package. Add oregano and basil.

In large bowl, combine green beans, pasta, seafood, olives, parmesan cheese and onion. Add dressing. Toss well. Refrigerate, covered, several hours or until chilled.

Stir just before serving.

Makes 8 servings; 254 calories, 16 g fat (55 percent calories from fat), 8 g protein, 21 g carbohydrate, 10 mg cholesterol and 627 mg sodium each.

Seafood Caesar salad

3 tbsp. vinegar
1 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1½ tsp. Dijon mustard
3 cloves garlic, sliced
½ cup olive oil
2 tbsp. dairy sour cream
8 cups torn romaine lettuce
1 cup Caesar-style croutons
8 oz. flake-style surimi seafood
6 tbsp. grated parmesan cheese

Process vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, mustard and garlic in blender until garlic is pureed. With blender running, gradually add oil in slow, steady stream. Add sour cream. Blend until smooth. Transfer to covered container. Refrigerate.

At serving time, combine lettuce, croutons, seafood and parmesan in large bowl. Add dressing. Toss well. Serve at once.

Makes 6 servings; 270 calories, 10 g protein, 11 g carbohydrate, 22 g fat (71 percent calories from fat), 140 mg cholesterol and 563 mg sodium each.

Seafood Louis

⅓ cup mayonnaise
⅓ cup chili sauce
3 tbsp. finely chopped green bell pepper
1½ tbsp. chopped green onion
2 tsp. lemon juice
¾ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
⅛ tsp. pepper
4 large lettuce leaves
3 cups shredded leaf lettuce
1 lb. flake-style surimi seafood
1 medium tomato, cut in 8 wedges
2 hard-cooked eggs, quartered
16 pitted ripe olives
8 lemon wedges

Combine mayonnaise, chili sauce, bell pepper, onion, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce and pepper in bowl. Mix well with spoon. Cover. Chill.

To serve, line 4 serving plates with a lettuce leaf. Arrange ¾ cup shredded lettuce on each leaf. Divide surimi evenly among each plate.

Pie baker knows how to use fresh fruit

Dorothy Marsh, St. Peters, is the winner of this week's recipe contest for Fresh Fruit Pie. For it she wins a prize of dinner certificates from Pasta House Company.

This versatile dessert has been in her family many years. It is a summer hit at their house with homegrown peaches, as well as their own blueberries. The cookie crust should be cooled before adding the thickened mixture of whatever fresh fruit is desired.

Recipes in this month's Tex-Mex Recipe Contest will be accepted through Aug. 31 for consideration as winner each of five weeks in September. Don't wait to find out what everyone else is preparing for their fiesta. Send in your own recipe for enchiladas, burritos, chili, nachos, sopapillas, Mexicali pizza or other favorite Tex-Mex treat.

One recipe per household can be sent to: Tex-Mex Recipe Contest, 1714 Deer Tracks Trail, St. Louis, Mo. 63131.

Winners are notified by mail. Duplicate entries will be considered on the basis of earlier entry or best compliance with the rules. Contest winners may enter again six months after the prize-winning publication date.

Fresh fruit pie

Cookie Crust

¼ cup (½ stick) margarine, softened
¼ cup sugar
1 egg yolk
1 cup flour

Preheat oven to 400°.

Stir together margarine, sugar and egg yolk. Mix in flour until crumbs form. Press into 9-inch pie plate. Bake in preheated oven 10 minutes or until edge is browned. Cool.

Fill with Fruit Filling. Chill.

Fruit Filling

½ cup sugar
3 tbsp. cornstarch
1½ cups orange juice
¼ cup lemon juice
6 cups cut-up fresh fruit, drained

In saucepan, stir together sugar and cornstarch. Stir in orange juice. Bring to boil, stirring. Boil 1 minute. Stir in lemon juice. Cool completely.

Fold in fresh fruit. Possible suggestions include peaches, bananas, oranges, grapes, berries, etc.

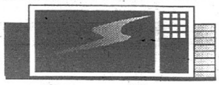
Fish frolics in micro-waves for easy protein

By Kathy Hanewinkel
Home economist



Over the Waves

August seems a little fishy to me. It is National Catfish Month and I just returned from Alaska, which is in the height of salmon season.

Fish is my absolute favorite protein food to microwave. Although I microwave basically all meat at my house, fish gets my top vote because it cooks so quickly. Fish heats as it cooks, so when it is hot, it is done.

Fish is a tender, lean and nutritious food. Most fish can be cooked on high or full power without toughening, but I recommend using medium-high (70 percent) power on many fish recipes to even the cooking process and ensure tender results. Cooked on a lower power level, fish is tender, flaky and evenly done.

High power does work for fish that is young, lean and tender, but older, more fatty fish — like salmon, mackerel, tuna, mussels, shrimp and lobster — needs a medium-high power level.

This month markets feature both salmon and catfish, which are flown in several times a week. The process is so good that the salmon very well could have been swimming yesterday and the catfish may just have been taken from the farm where it was raised.

After spending time in Alaska, I assure you that fresh is preferable to any other form. "Fresh" fish never should have been frozen and should not smell "fishy" — so it tastes fresh, too.

Manhattan-style salmon chowder

- 2 slices bacon, cut in ½ inch pieces
- 1 medium red potato, cut in ½ inch cubes
- ½ medium onion, chopped
- 1 rib celery, chopped
- ¼ green bell pepper, chopped
- 1 ½ tsp. parsley flakes
- ½ tsp. basil
- ¼ tsp. oregano
- ⅛ tsp. cayenne pepper or hot sauce to taste, if desired
- 1 can (16 oz.) tomatoes, chopped
- 2 cups vegetable juice or snappy tomato juice
- ¾ lb. salmon filet, cut in chunks
- Salt and pepper to taste

In 3-quart microwave-safe container, combine bacon, potato, onion, celery and green pepper. Microwave, covered, on high power 2 minutes. Stir in parsley, basil, oregano and cayenne. Microwave 2 minutes longer until vegetables are tender-crisp.

Add tomatoes with their juice, vegetable juice, salmon and salt and pepper. Microwave on medium-high (70 percent) power 15 minutes, stirring occasionally, until salmon is flaky. Let stand 10 to 15 minutes.

High-class catfish Dijon

- 1 cup heavy cream
- 2 tbsp. Dijon mustard
- 4 catfish filets
- White pepper
- Cayenne pepper

In 12-by-8-inch microwave-safe dish, combine cream and mustard. Microwave on medium-high (70 percent) power 2 minutes.

Sprinkle catfish with white pepper. Place in cream sauce. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave on medium-high power 5 minutes. Turn and rearrange fish. Spoon sauce over filets. Microwave, covered with waxed paper, on medium-high power 3 minutes. Check for flakiness.

State tax deadlines extended for flood victims

Gov. Jim Edgar has issued an Executive Order extending by 60 days tax filing deadlines for individuals and businesses who cannot pay their state taxes on time because of the loss of their records, homes or businesses in the Great Flood of '93.

Edgar also ordered all state agencies, boards and commissions to assess the need for suspending other non-life threatening deadlines or penalties for individuals or business afflicted by the historic flooding.

"The normal functions and regulation of state government should not act as an impediment to these citizens as they recover during the next several weeks from the catastrophic flooding that has spread from Illinois' northern border to its most southern points," Edgar said.

The extended deadlines will apply to all taxes collected by the Department of Revenue that otherwise would have been due between June 1 and Aug. 31, 1993, for taxpayers in the 33 counties thus far designated as state disaster areas.

Edgar's order will include businesses who were scheduled to make quarterly sales tax payments by July 20 and to individuals who should have remitted quarterly estimated income tax payments by June 15.

In addition, the governor suspended for 30 days the need for out-of-state commerical vehicles carrying emergency goods or services to the flooded areas to obtain licenses and permits required by state motor fuel tax laws.

Edgar also announced the Illinois Department of Revenue has established a toll-free hotline to work with businesses and individuals who face problems with paying their taxes on time because of flooding.

Affected taxpayers can call the Department of Revenue at 1-800-356-6302 (1-800-FLOOD-02) or 1-800-544-5304 (TDD) between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m.; or write: Department of Revenue, Taxpayer Correspondence Division, P.O. Box 19044, Springfield, Ill 62794-9044.

The relaxed requirements will be available only to those taxpayers actually afflicated by the flooding.

The 33 counties declared state disaster areas are Adams, Alexander, Boone, Calhoun, Carroll, Cook, DuPage, Greene, Hancock, Henderson, Henry, Jackson, Jersey, Jo Daviess, Kane, Lake, Lee, Madison, Massac, McHenry, Mercer, Monroe, Ogle, Pike, Pope, Pulaski, Randolph, Rock Island, Stephenson, St. Clair, Union, Whiteside and Winnebago.

The Governor's Executive Order is effective immediately, and other counties may be added as conditions warrant.

IP donates time, money for flood

Illinois Power and its employees have spent more than 2,000 man-hours, donated more than $5,000 and filled about 24,000 sandbags to help flood victims near the Mississippi and Illinois rivers.

Employees across IP's service territory have been working since July 12 to assist the flood victims. Volunteer activities have been coordinated by local Illinois Power offices in flood areas with support from offices in Decatur, Galesburg, Clinton, Bloomington and other areas. The utility is matching employee contributions for flood victims up to $2,500. Employees have donated more than $3,000 for flood relief as of July 21.

IP employees are working on weekends, vacation days and on company time collecting food and supplies, sandbagging and operating collection centers.

SUCCESS STORY
Hi, I'm Phyllis, and I placed an ad in your paper from December through May. I had 35 responses, and one just happened to be an old friend from many years ago. Now we are very happy together and plan to get married next year. I'm 51 years old, and this is like a miracle to both of us. We are so happy and can't really believe how this happened! I really want to thank you for letting me run my ad for free. It's been wonderful, a lot of fun, and I'm excited to say that I have a very happy future ahead of me. Thank you.

In Memoriam 480

In Memory
JOE JOHNSON
NOV. 5, 1969
AUG. 5, 1991

Today recalls sad memories of a loved one gone to rest. I often sit and think of you and the things you said and did. I wonder why you had to die, so young and full of life. Gone is the face we love so dear, silent the voice we loved to hear. If we could make steps out of heartaches and use all our teardrops too, we'd build a stairway to Heaven and climb it each day to see you. What it meant to lose him no one will ever know. Some people come into our lives, make footprints on our hearts and we are never the same. Heavenly Father up above, take this message to our loved one.

Family Support Network Of The American Legion... Just A Phone Call Away.

The American Legion hands military families a line--a hotline stretching nationwide. As U.S. forces lay their lives on the line serving in Operation "Desert Shield," The American Legion is hooking up phone lines with military families at home who need assistance.

The Family Support Network of The American Legion, an around-the-clock toll-free number, is the first step in connecting with a nearby Legion Post or Auxiliary Unit. These veterans and their families know first-hand the problems of military deployment. More than four-million volunteers are ready to help meet a variety of needs.

Aladdin

Another animated triumph for Disney as the classic story of "Aladdin" is given exciting, adventurous life. Robin Williams steals the film as the voice of the Genie. Great for all members of the family. See it once, and you'll want to see it again. (¼)

Rated G. Running time: 95 minutes. Creve Coeur, Lindbergh, Village, Ritz, St. Andrews, Cross Keys, Avalon.

Another Stakeout

Lukewarm rehash of popular cops-as-buddies comedy from 1987. Comedienne Rosie O'Donnell joins Richard Dreyfus and Emilio Estevez in this formula film with television-style laughs. ()

Rated PG-13 (violence, vulgar language). Running time: 109 minutes. Chesterfield, Halls Ferry, Kenrick, Ronnie's, St. Charles, St. Clair, Union Station, Northwest Square, Esquire, Eastgate.

Benefit of the Doubt

Dull, predictable relationship mystery about a man sent to jail for supposedly murdering his wife and who later returns to try to patch things up with his daughter and proclaim his innocence. Donald Sutherland and Amy Irving star. The movie is a waste of time. (*¾)

Rated R (scene of attempted incest, adult language and partial nudity). Running time: 91 minutes. Westport.

Benny & Joon

Young love and mental illness mark the questionable crux of this hyper-cute movie aimed at the teen crowd. Appealing performances, but in the service of a script so sweet it should carry a warning for diabetics. (½)

Rated PG (language and a few adult references). Running time: 100 minutes. Lindbergh.

Cliffhanger

Not reviewed. Creve Coeur, Lindbergh, Village, Ritz, Cross Keys.

Coneheads

Bleak comedy based on former "Saturday Night Live" sketch featuring Dan Akyroyd and Jane Curtin. Not much to look at. Even less to laugh at. (*½)

Rated PG (minor sexual references). Running time: 87 minutes. Alton, Clarkson, Eureka, Halls Ferry, Keller, Northwest Plaza, 66 Park Drive-In, Union Station, Plaza Twin, Crestwood, Regency, Esquire, Westroads, Quad.

Cop and a Half

A better-than-average story of a kid and cop who become buddies, starring Burt Reynolds as a grouchy police detective and talented newcomer Norman D. Golden II as a grade-school student with an obsession to become a cop. (¾)

Rated PG (some mild violence). Running time: 87 minutes. Lindbergh.

Dennis The Menace

Disappointing film adaptation of popular Hank Ketcham comic strip. Even Walter Matthau can't pump much fun into this unhappy, so-called kids' comedy. Newcomer Mason Gamble plays Dennis. It may be a one-film career for the 8-year-old. (*¾)

Rated PG (comic violence). Running time: 92 minutes. Northwest Square.

Free Willy

Good children's story about a runaway boy and a captured whale who learn how they can help one another and set each free for a new and better life.

Rated PG for mild action levels. Running time: 105 minutes. (¼) Alton, Clarkson, Eureka, Halls Ferry, Kenrick, Mid Rivers, Ronnie's, St. Charles, St. Clair, Northwest Square, Galleria.

Guilty As Sin

A boring, uninspired film in which Rebecca DeMornay plays a tough criminal defense attorney who gets trapped into defending a womanizer who has murdered his wife to inherit her estate. Bad script. Bland direction. Dull stuff. (*¾)

Rated R (sexual suggestiveness, violence and adult language). Running time: 107 minutes. Ritz.

Hocus Pocus

Disappointing star vehicle for Bette Midler as the leader of a trio of 17th century witches who return for one more broom ride around the block. A formless script and lackluster humor don't help this juvenile effort. (*½)(

Rated PG (mild scares and questionable references to a youngster's virginity). Running time: 93 minutes. Chesterfield, Halls Ferry, Keller, Mid Rivers, Northwest Plaza, Crestwood, Regency, Esquire, Westroads, Eastgate, Quad.

Hot Shots Part Deux

A successful sequel to last year's lampoon comedy hit, "Hot Shots." Charlie Sheen and a talented cast of comedic actors are featured. "Deux" enjoy yourself. (¾)

Rated PG-13 (nudity, mild profanity and light sexual situations). Running time: 87 minutes. Lindbergh.

In The Line Of Fire

Clint Eastwood plays a tough-minded U.S. Secret Service agent trying to redeem himself 30 years after failing to save the life of President John F. Kennedy when Kennedy was shot in Dallas. The film is well-made, with John Malkovich giving a superb performance as an ex-CIA operative turned presidential assassin. Great last-minute finale (¾).

Rated R (violence and adult language). Running time: 123 minutes. Chesterfield, Eureka, Halls Ferry, Keller, Northwest Plaza, St. Clair, North Twin, Union Station, Crestwood, Regency, Esquire, Westroads, Eastgate.

Jurassic Park

Spectacular film adaptation by Steven Spielberg of Michael Crichton's best-selling novel about an eccentric billionaire who clones dinosaurs and builds a theme park to show them off. A special effects triumph with great levels of action and excitement, although it may be too intense for children under the age of 10. (½)

Rated PG-13 (scenes of dinosaurs attacking and overall levels of action). Running time: 127 minutes. Clarkson, Des Peres, Eureka, Halls Ferry, Kenrick, Mid Rivers, Northwest Plaza, Ronnie's, St. Clair, Union Station, Regency, Esquire, Westroads.

Life With Mikey

Amusing family comedy about a kids' talent agency run by a former television star, played by Michael J. Fox. Fresh and funny. (¾)

Rated PG (language). Running time: 95 minutes. Lindbergh, Village

Menace II Society

Hard-hitting, realistic story from the "Boyz N the Hood" school of film making about teenage life in the Watts district of Los Angeles. A strong effort by two 21-year-old brothers from Detroit, Allen and Albert Hughes. (¾)

Rated R (non-stop profanity and graphic violence). Running time: 90 minutes. North Twin.

Much Ado About Nothing

Inventive and brilliantly talented actor-film maker Kenneth Branagh adapts Shakespeare's lusty romantic classic to the screen in a most pleasurable fashion. This inviting motion picture includes a strong cast. Branagh's Oscar-winning wife, Emma Thompson, co-stars. ()

Rated PG-13 (one scene of partial nudity). Running time: 111 minutes. Westport, Hi-Pointe.

Poetic Justice

Effective film starring Janet Jackson as an alienated young woman in South Central Los Angeles easing her way into a new romantic relationship after a previous one ended in gang violence. Lots of problems with this film, but it is well-packaged and will appeal to its target audience of 18- to 25-year-olds looking for love. (½)

Rated R (vulgar language, violence and sexual situations. Running time: 110 minutes. Halls Ferry, Keller, Northwest Plaza, St. Charles, St. Clair, North Twin, Union Station, Plaza Twin, Crestwood, Galleria.

Rising Sun

Slick, engrossing film adaptation of best-selling novel of the same title about a murder in Los Angeles and Japanese-American cultural conflicts that make solving the killing all the more mysterious. Sean Connery and Wesley Snipes lead a good-looking cast. ()

Rated R (language and violence). Running time: 129 minutes. Eureka, Halls Ferry, Keller, Northwest Plaza, St. Clair, North Twin, Union Station, Crestwood Regency, Esquire.

Robin Hood: Men in Tights

Not reviewed. Clarkson, Halls Ferry, Keller, Kenrick, Shady Oak, St. Clair, Union Station, Northwest Square, Westroads.

Rookie of the Year

Kids' baseball fantasy film about a 12-year-old with a 100-mph fastball. Daniel Stern directs and is hilarious in a small role as a pitching coach. If your son or daughter has ever caught a baseball, better hustle them off to this picture right away. You'll all have a great time. (¾)

Rated PG (mild language). Running time: 103 minutes. Clarkson, Eureka, Halls Ferry, Kenrick, Mid Rivers, Ronnie's, St. Charles, St. Clair, Northwest Square, Galleria, Westroads, Eastgate.

The Sandlot

Boyhood tale about baseball, and preteen adventures in Salt Lake City, circa 1962. Best enjoyed by those with relatively fresh memories of youthful baseball experiences. (¾)

PG (mild profanity and scenes that may frighten small children). Running time 101 minutes. Lindbergh, Village.

Sleepless in Seattle

Lovesick but appealing story of two people in need of one another who throw convention to the wind and end up meeting in a most unconventional way. Meg Ryan and Tom Hanks star in this engaging couples movie. See it with someone you love. (¾)

Rated PG (mild language and a few adult references). Running time: 100 minutes. Clarkson, Des Peres, Jamestown, Kenrick, Ronnie's, St. Charles, Northwest Square, Galleria, Nameoki, Quad.

So I Married an Axe Murderer

Misguided comedy thriller starring Mike Myers from "Saturday Night Live" as a performance poet who marries the proprietress of a butcher shop and then thinks she's a killer. As a comedy, this movie isn't. (*¾)

Rated PG-13 (brief nudity and adult references). Running time: 110 minutes. Des Peres, Eureka, Halls Ferry, Kenrick, Mid Rivers, Ronnie's, St. Charles, 66 Park Drive-In, Union Station, Northwest Square, Galleria, Eastgate, Quad.

Ackermann will play multiple roles in "La Cage Aux Folles," the final production of Stages St. Louis' current summer season. The show will be presented Aug. 11-29 at the Kirkwood Community Theater in Kirkwood Park, Adams Avenue and Geyer Road.

This year marks Ackermann's fifth season with Stages St. Louis. Ackermann, a St. Louis native, spent 10 years living and working in New York City. She spent two of those years as a cast member of the Broadway production "The Best Little Whorehouse In Texas."

Some of the Stages St. Louis productions featuring Ackermann have included "Anything Goes," "Gypsy" and "Sweet Charity."

Ackermann and her husband of 12 years, Kurt Wehrsten, live in Fenton. They have a 5-year-old daughter named Allison Irene.

For me, Stages has meant: "That I've been able to continue my career and have a family life, too. We had our first day of rehearsal July 27, and many of us sometimes bring our kids to the theater.

Working in Kirkwood is special because: "Stages is primarily a theater company whose 7,000 subscribers are mostly Kirkwood residents. They're very faithful and supportive. They recognize company members all the time. They're always coming up to us out in the public and talking about the shows they've seen. They're always curious about what we're doing next. They're actually very protective of all of us."

High-powered Hilgards capture title

Hitters lead Belleville to sweep over Tri-City in District 22 finals

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

Belleville Post 58 pitched and pounded its way to the District 22 championship Sunday, sweeping Tri-City Post 113 8-0, 7-6 to advance to this week's Fifth Division Tournament in Marissa.

After rolling to a shutout win in the first game behind Roy Tippett's complete-game effort, the Hilgards took an early 3-0 lead in the second inning on a home run by Adrian Jacquot and held off a rally by Tri-City in the ninth inning.

JACQUOT, WHO went 5-for-10 on the day with nine runs batted in, did most of the damage. But the rest of Belleville's lineup proved just as powerful.

Matt Belosi set the tone for the day when he homered off Tri-City starter Ben Hicks in the second inning of the first game for the Hilgards' first run. Belosi had cleared the fence with a mammoth shot earlier in the count, but it went foul.

"They just go up there and hit," said Belleville assistant coach George Vineyard, who filled in for head coach Doug Cooper. "They see the ball well, and they've been making solid contact. Every day, it's somebody new. That's the best thing about it."

The Hilgards turned Jacquot loose after getting impressive performances by Belosi, Tim Mueth and Eric Edgar in their South Division playoff series against O'Fallon. Belleville victimized O'Fallon lefthanders Jason Faust and Jeff Sonsoucie for seven home runs last Thursday in 7-5, 14-2 victories.

THE HILGARDS were not as dominating Sunday, although Tippett, second-game starter Curt Foppe and reliever Nathan Vineyard limited the Triplets to just 11 hits on the day.

"I think the better team won today," Tri-City coach Gus Lignoul said. "We couldn't put anything together.

"They're a very good team. They're well disciplined in the strike zone. Up and down, they're good."

The Hilgards gave Tippett more than enough support in the first game, taking an early 2-0 lead after three innings and extending it to 5-0 by the sixth. Tippett stayed strong throughout the game, giving up just six hits and striking out nine batters.

Jacquot, Belleville's shortstop and leadoff hitter, went 2-5 with four RBI in the first game and then knocked in five more runs with a 3-5 performance in the second game. In the second inning, he belted a three-run shot off Tri-City starter Corey Dickerson to score Steve Ward and Scott Hilpert.

TRI-CITY HELPED Belleville's cause with two errors in the second inning and an error in the fourth, three misplays that led to big innings. Errors by third baseman Sean Lakatos and

Triplets fight to end in second-game loss

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

Just as he did for the Warrior baseball team earlier this year, pitcher Joe Rieser closed out the season on the mound Sunday when the Tri-City Post 113 Triplets lost to Belleville in the District 22 finals.

BUT AFTER Rieser pitched the final 5⅔ innings, the Triplets were not completely through. Down 7-5 in the bottom of the ninth, Tri-City managed to score a run without a hit and had the tying run at third base with two outs against Belleville reliever Nathan Vineyard.

Vineyard, however, retired Les Nunes on a grounder to third baseman Roy Tippett, who provided an appropriate finish for Belleville by throwing to first for the out. Tippett began the day by firing a six-hit shutout against the Triplets in the first game.

"We didn't quit, we hung right in there," Tri-City manager Gus Lignoul said. "We just came up short."

The Triplets were trying to force a third game with Belleville, which would have been played Monday. But after losing 8-0 in the first game, Tri-City found itself behind 3-0 when Adrian Jacquot hit a three-run homer in the second inning off starter Corey Dickerson.

THE HILGARDS scored four more runs to chase Dickerson in the fourth, but they failed to score thereafter with Rieser on the mound. Rieser gave up a run-scoring single to Dwayne Johnston, a run charged to Dickerson, before shutting down Belleville the rest of the way.

Earlier this year, Rieser pitched the final six innings of relief when the Warrior baseball team lost to Edwardsville in regional play.

"Joe Rieser did an excellent job again," Lignoul said. "He did that all year for us."

The Triplets nearly loaded the bases with no outs in the ninth Sunday against Vineyard. With Jeff Luffman coming to bat, Belleville coach George Vineyard elected to bring Matt Belosi back behind the plate. Belosi had been moved to first base the inning before.

Marshall spends summer on Mon-Clair mounds

By Keith Farroll
Correspondent

When the month of August comes rolling around, it usually means a transition period for most college athletes.

For Granite City's Drake Marshall, it means wrapping up the season with the Mon-Clair Baseball League's Granite City Eagles and getting to take the mound at Southwest Missouri State.

MARSHALL IS currently slated as the starting second baseman and a starter in the pitching rotation for the Eagles.

"Drake's been a big help for us," said Granite City catcher/coach Daren DePew. "It's tough to get by with two pitchers (Darin Hendrickson and Brian Harshany). He's added another dimension, that's for sure. He can be successful in this league as well as in college."

Although he was just a full-time pitcher at SMSU, he hopes the time he has put in at second base and in the lineup for the Eagles will pay off this fall for the Bears. Marshall is batting near the .375 mark for the Eagles. On the mound, he Marshall is 4-1.

"I want to try both," Marshall said of pitching and playing the infield for the Bears. "I've hinted around a little already and the coach said that it's a possibility."

THE BEARS LOST three infielders — two, shortstop Bill Mueller (Chicago White Sox) and second baseman Steve Aldridge (New York Yankees), to the major league draft.

"I worked out hitting year-round and took ground balls with some infielders after running with the pitchers," Marshall said.

Last season with the Bears, Marshall was named honorable mention all-conference with a 5-2 record and a 2.95 earned run average. He attributed some of that success to his mental game.

"I really didn't think about it," Marshall said. "When you start thinking, that's when you get in trouble."

SOME OF THE uplifting moments that Marshall had in an SMSU uniform as the team's No. 1 pitcher was beating top-rated schools such as Clemson and Creighton. He said he lost a close game to Wichita State.

"We play some of the best schools in the country," Mar-

Second at SWISA

Paddlers edged by meet host Summersport

By R.J. Gerber
Staff writer

The Summersport diving team used its home-board advantage in Godfrey this past weekend to spring past the Paddlers for the SWISA championship.

Summersport scored a narrow victory (76-72) over the Paddlers, who had gone through nine dual meets this summer without suffering a defeat.

PADDLERS COACH Gayle McCormick said she knew it would come down to her squad and the host team.

"It was a really exciting meet," said McCormick, who is in her 22nd season as the Paddlers' leader. "It went back and forth and all our kids did very well. It's always very competitive between these two teams and that makes it interesting."

The Paddlers did top Summersport earlier this season in Godfrey, but McCormick said it's a different meet at conference time.

"That's the only thing the kids aren't aware of," she said. "Just because you win the dual, that doesn't mean you'll win conference. The home board always plays a factor. But when we beat them it wasn't this close. They had some kids that weren't there (in the regular season meet)."

THE PADDLERS HAD five individual champions in the seven-team meet, including a sweep of the 9-10 age group. Ashley Slover won the girls division with 119.90 points and Michael Vivod (99.60) was the boys champion. Jamie Cassiday took third (102.35), while Matt Dittman (79.45) was fifth to give their team four point scorers in that age group.

In addition, Robbie Steen took top honors in the 8-under division and Blake Shephard was the 11-12 boys winner with 127.25 points. Kevin Harris rounded out the championship performances for the Paddlers with a title-winning point total of 162.30 in the 13-14 division.

But it wasn't enough for the Paddlers, who battle Summersport annually. The third-place team, Edwardsville's Montclair, finished with 27 team points.

"It's always a little disappointing to lose, but I was really proud of the kids," McCormick said. "We got a few surprises from Steen and Shephard. But I was happy with the overall performance. And the kids seemed to have some fun.

"We knew going in that our two teams were the powerhouses because we have so much depth and we have a tradition at Paddlers."

OTHER PLACE winners for the Paddlers included Jenna Cassiday, who was third in the 8-under division with 69.35 points; Laura Canada, third in the 11-12 division with 126.30; Steve Logan, who finished second in the 13-14 division with 147.65 points; and Bari Baum, who was the girls runner-up in that division with 148.05 points.

In the 15-18 age group, Brooke Bjorkman, second with 224.10, and Kasey Krinski, third with 209, scored for the girls, while Tim Crider's 182.55 points were good enough for third place in that group.

"Diving takes a lot of self-discipline and the kids have

SLU, Journals to sponsor Sporting Geography

By Grant Peters
Staff writer

Many kids love sports, but just as many kids — maybe more — dislike class.

Karen Fox is hoping to change that. She has figured out a way to get kids to enjoy class through sports.

"THE WHOLE KEY to get kids to learn is to get them interested," Fox said. "Many of them are already interested in soccer and basketball, so we tried to combine the two with geography studies."

The result is Sporting Geography, a non-profit organization stemming from Geography Insights From Today's Sports (GIFTS). Fox first piloted the program with Vanderbilt University in 1990, but it really got off the ground here with the help of Saint Louis University.

Sporting Geography is an educational activity kit filled with maps and questions based on the travels of Saint Louis University's soccer and basketball teams. The first program followed the basketball team in 1991, and the soccer team quickly followed the next fall.

"The people at Saint Louis U. really liked the program and they still do because they have such a big commitment to the community," said Fox, president of GIFTS.

THE KIT COMPLIES with state guidelines and is easily adaptable to teacher's lesson plans. The soccer kit includes plans from early September to mid-November, and the basketball season quickly follows (the basketball season runs through February). Students will also learn about the backgrounds of certain members of the respective teams.

As was the case last year, the Suburban Journals are also helping sponsor Fox's program.

Fox cited a need to learn geography, as the geography illiteracy rate among children is high.

"It doesn't matter what any of the kids do when they grow up, they have to know the world better," Fox said.

FOX SEES ANOTHER benefit to the Sporting Geography program — the fact that the students are made more aware of college.

"Following the teams may make them more aware of the colleges and the universities and the possibilities that come along with the education," Fox said.

Last year DePaul and Arkansas State joined forces with Fox, and this year, the University of North Carolina-Greensboro (soccer) and the University of Louisville (football) were added. As Sporting Geography continues to grow, Fox feels more and more fortunate.

"I do feel that way because I'm doing something that I love every day that's also beneficial to young students," said Fox, who follows up her program with personal visits and surveys of every Sporting Geography market. "The student and teacher feedback has been great, and hopefully this will continue to grow."

If you would like to participate in the Sporting Geography program for the upcoming year, please fill out the accompanying coupon in your Journal.

Park District to hold tennis invitational

Entries are now being taken for the Granite City Park District's Invitational Tennis Tournament, which will be held Aug. 13-15 at the Park District and Granite City High School courts.

The tournament is sanctioned by the United States Tennis Association and the Missouri Valley Tennis Association. Play will be limited to three events. Singles fees are $10 per player, per event. Doubles fees are $10 ($5 per person, per event). The deadline to enter is 5 p.m. Aug. 10.

For more information, call tournament director Raffi Karibian at 931-5131 or 877-3059.

•Hilgards

shortstop Les Nunes gave the Hilgards two baserunners and eventually three runs when Jacquot cleared the fence.

With one out in the fourth, center fielder Jason Maxfield's misplay of a fly ball by Edgar and Scott Hilpert's single gave the Hilgards runners at second and third. Jacquot followed with a two-run double to make it 5-2, and Keefe singled in Jacquot to chase Dickerson.

Joe Rieser relieved and got one out before Dwayne Johnston's RBI single made it 7-2. Rieser pitched a scoreless game the rest of the way, but the damage had already been done.

"We had two bad innings, and that was the difference in the game," Lignoul said. "They executed better than we did, and they're good enough to capitalize on it. They're going to score some runs.

"THEY MADE THE plays. I don't think Belleville misplayed a ball all day."

The Hilgards committed just one error, and it almost proved costly. It happened in the ninth inning, when Mark Winfield came to the plate with runners at second and third and Nathan Vineyard on the mound.

Winfield lifted a sacrifice fly to Edgar in left field, scoring Jeff Ridenour to make it 7-6. Jeff Luffman took third on the play when Edgar's throw went wild. With two outs, Vineyard retired Les Nunes on a groundout to end the threat.

The Triplets could not come up with a hit in the ninth inning and had just five for the game. Still, they came close to forcing a third game with their ninth-inning rally.

Bill Herman and Ridenour drew walks off Vineyard to begin the ninth.

"He's done that to me before," George Vineyard said of his son. "He has a tendency to be wild. He's got to make it exciting."

THE HILGARDS' WIN completed a four-game run through the playoffs against the North and South Division winners in the regular season, Tri-City and O'Fallon. Belleville won all four games in convincing fashion after coming out of the loser's bracket in the South Division playoffs.

Their first game at the Fifth Division Tournament will be at 4 p.m. Wednesday. Pairings were unavailable at press time.

"I've had a ball," George Vineyard said. "We had a great run. How far it will go, we don't know."

•Triplets

Luffman attempted to bunt Matt Stinson and Jeff Ridenour over to second and third, but Belosi threw Stinson out at third to get the first out of the inning.

"THAT WAS A big key," George Vineyard said. "I was trying to get (Belosi) some rest, but we needed him back there."

A passed ball by Belosi, however, moved Ridenour to third and Luffman to second for Mark Winfield. Winfield delivered a sacrifice fly to left field to drive in Ridenour and make it 7-6.

Winfield also came through earlier in the game. In the seventh, he hit a pinch single to drive in two runs and cut Belleville's lead to 7-5.

Vineyard said he expected the Triplets to fight back after Tippett's opening-game shutout.

"We knew they had a quality team," George Vineyard said. "They're very good. They had a lot of faith in themselves, and they fought until the last out."

The Triplets, who won the North Division, ended the year 28-6.

Eagles to hold soccer tryouts

The Granite City Eagles '78 boys soccer team will hold open tryouts for the 1993-94 season Aug. 12-13.

Tryouts will be at the Quad-Cities soccer fields under the lights from 8-9:30 p.m. on both nights. To be eligible, players must have been born on or after Aug. 1, 1977. Players must bring a soccer ball and a copy of their birth certificate.

The team will be under new coaching. For more information, call 797-1308.

Journals' Hawaii tours have much to offer tourists

The term "aloha shirt" was coined in July 1936 by Ellery J. Chun who sold shirts for $1 in his Honolulu shop. The shirts were styled with illustrative designs, intricate patterns and lush colors that reflected tropical life.

Surprisingly, the aloha shirt originated on the mainland, where it was known as the "thousand mile shirt." Worn on the outside of pants, it was made of durable material for use on manual labor jobs.

In 1924, the Dupont Co. invented a new and inexpensive material called rayon. This solved manufacturing problems of registering dyes onto silk and helped the aloha shirt industry to prosper.

Tourism blossomed in the Hawaiian Islands in the 1920s and '30s and sparked the demand for these shirts, prompting local tailor shops to increase production. By 1940, there were thousands of new designs on aloha shirts.

The shirts certainly have come a long way from their original hand-silk-screened patterns on rayon and silk, nostalgic designs, beautiful color combinations and coconut buttons. Today, these highly collectible aloha shirts from the 1940s sell for as much as $2,500 each.

Aloha Friday is a tradition now observed every day in Hawaii. It was initiated in 1948 during Aloha Week. It was conceived so that businessmen could wear aloha shirts to work.

It is ironic that Midwesterners insist on wearing coats and ties when summer temperatures here often hit the high '90s — with humidity to match — while Hawaiians enjoy comfortable aloha-wear, although their summer weather averages temperatures in the low '80s with low humidity and cooling trade winds.

This winter Journal readers can take advantage of two Journal-sponsored tours: the annual Grand Hawaii Tour in February, and the special Christmas in Hawaii vacation in December.

Reservations are being accepted for both tours. Contact a Vista Independent Agent or call the tour coordinator at Tenholder Travel at 894-5555 in St. Louis, or call toll-free 800-333-5910 for complete details.

The Journals' Grand Tours will travel to Hawaii, Alaska, Scandinavia and the British Isles, the Greek Islands, and Australia and New Zealand in 1994 and 1995.

The Grand Tours are arranged and operated by Tauck Tours, TWA, and Tenholder Travel. They are accompanied by professional tour directors and guides, and are hosted by St. Louis' own Anne Keefe. These professionals work closely to present some of the finest travel experiences available.

SIUE offering computer instruction courses

The Office of Continuing Education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will offer five non-credit courses in computer instruction this fall. They include introductory IBM personal computer and MS-DOS, introductory and intermediate WordPerfect 5.1, and introductory and intermediate Lotus 1-2-3. Registration for each course is $150.

Instruction introducing students to Lotus 1-2-3 is scheduled Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in Room 3208 of Classroom Building II, offered from Sept. 7 through Sept. 23 or Oct. 5 through Oct. 21.

Lessons introducing the beginner to the IBM personal computer and DOS system will be held Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in Room 1225 of the Science Building from either Aug. 28 through Sept. 18 or Sept. 25 through Oct. 9.

Lessons introducing the beginner to WordPerfect 5.1 will meet Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in Room 1225 of the Science Building from either Oct. 16 through Oct. 30 or Nov. 6 through Nov. 20.

Lessons in intermediate Lotus 1-2-3 will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in Room 3208 of Classroom Building II, from Nov. 2 through Nov. 18.

Lessons in intermediate WordPerfect 5.1 will meet Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in Room 1225 of the Science Building from Dec. 4 through Dec. 18.

Flood aftermath: Snakes forced into new areas

The following article was provided by James Krejci, Extension Educator, Natural Resources, Madison-St. Clair Unit.

Following floods, snakes are often forced into places where they are not usually found. If you live in an area where snakes inhabit, take the following precautions:

* Learn how to identify poisonous snakes common to your area.

* Be alert for snakes in unusual places. They may be found in or around homes, barns, outbuildings, driftwood, levees, dikes, dames, stalled automobiles, piles of debris, building materials, trash or any type of rubble or shelter.

* Before beginning any clean-up or rescue operations, search the premises thoroughly for snakes. They may be under or near any type of protective cover.

* In resuce or clean-up operations, wear heavy leather or rubber high-topped boots, and heavy gloves. Wear trouser legs outside boots. Be extremely careful around debris. Use rakes, pry bars or other long-handed tools when removing debris. Never expose your hands, feet or other parts of your body in a place were a snake might be.

* Explain to children the dangers of snakes under storm or flood conditions and the precautions they follow. Do not allow children to play around debris.

* Nonpoisonous snakes can be captured by pinning the snake down with a long stick or pole, preferable forked at one end, and then removed by scooping up with a snow shovel or flat-blade shovel.

* If you are uncomfortable about removing the snake yourself, seek someone within the community who has experience handling snakes who could do an effective job for you. A good starting point is your local wildlife conservation officer or sheriff's department.

* As a last resort, you may need to kill a poisonous snake. Club it with a long stick, rod or other tool. Never attempt to kill a poisonous snake with an instrument that brings you within the snakes striking range (usually estimated at less than one-half the total length of the snake).

* If you realize you are near a snake, avoid sudden movement. Sudden movements may cause the snake to strike. If you remain still the snake may leave. If the snake does not move away from you after a few minutes, slowly back away from it.

* Most snakes are not harmful or poisonous. Most snakes can be coaxed or left alone to leave the area.

* If someone is bitten by a poisonous snake, call a doctor or go to the nearest hospital immediately.

HOW TO EXCEED 55.

Regular exercise and a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet reduce your risk of heart disease. It's preventive maintenance that could add extra mileage to your heart. You can help prevent heart disease and stroke. We can tell you how. Call 1-800-AHA-USA1.

Senator sponsors public forum

Senator Frank Watson (R-Greenville) will sponsor a public forum on Tuesday, Aug. 17, to explain a new type of long term care insurance policy being proposed by the State of Illinois.

The "Partnership Policy" is being jointly developed by state officials, consumers and insurance industry representatives as an alternative to traditional long term care insurance. The special policy will allow consumers to protect their assets from Medicaid spend-down once an equivalent amount of insurance benefits are used.

Representatives from the Illinois Department on Aging and Insurance will provide an overview of how the policy will work and participants will be given an opportunity to ask questions and offer suggestions.

The public forum will be held at Ramada Inn, Route 159 and I-64 in Fairview Heights from 10 a.m. to noon. If accomodations are required (i.e., hearing interpreter, documents in braille, etc.), please contact the Senior HelpLine at 1-800-252-8966 (Voice and TDD).

A SPECIAL MESSAGE FOR FLOOD VICTIMS:

We admire your strength.
We respect your courage.
And we'd like to help.

You've stood strong during the flood of '93. And as your proud neighbor, we'd like to pitch in and help rebuild our community.

To begin with, we've donated $500,000 to various relief organizations to help individuals suffering from overwhelming loss. The funds were provided by the Commerce Banks and the William T. Kemper Foundation.

We've also set up special programs for those affected by the rains and floods. There are programs for Commerce customers and others requiring help. So, please call us if you've suffered from the flood. We'll help you in any way we can.

You can count on it.

How to choose the proper repair shop for your vehicle

The following advice is from the non-profit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE), which tests and certifies automotive technicians. These tips should take much of the guesswork out of finding a good repair establishment.

Preliminaries

- Read your owner's manual to become familiar with your vehicle and follow the manufacturer's suggested service schedule.
- Ask friends and associates for their recommendations. Even in this high-tech era, old-fashioned word-of-mouth reputation still is valuable.
- Check with your local consumer organization regarding the reputation of the shop in question.

At the shop

- Look for a neat, well-organized facility, with vehicles in the parking lot equal in value to your own and modern equipment in the service bays.
- All policies, labor rates, guarantees, methods of payment, should be posted and/or explained to your satisfaction.

For a free brochure on how to choose the right repair shop for your vehicle, send a business-sized SASE to: ASE, Dept. MC-F91, 13505 Dulles Technology Drive, Herndon, Va. 22071-3415.

Bad summer driving habits can hurt hoses later

Normal summer driving habits will accelerate radiator and heater hose failure this winter according to engineers at The Gates Rubber Company, the world's largest manufacturer of engine belts and hoses.

After four years of field tests on fleet vehicles, the company attributes the "root cause of most coolant hose failure" to a condition called electro-chemical degradation.

Accelerated by high under-the-hood heat and constant flexing, the condition eventually will produce a pinhole leak or will cause the hose to burst. This often occurs under normal pressure, before the hose has reached its expected service life.

Engine hoses subjected to summer driving habits, such as extended amounts of stop-and-go, engine idle, or "on-off" conditions, exhibited earlier and more severe electrochemical damage.

Gates engineers explain that hose and liquid coolant (water and ethylene-glycol antifreeze) exist is an environment that forms an electrical path between metal connectors, such as the engine or radiator, and the hose tube material.

This causes micro-cracks within the hose tube which allow the coolant to attack the hose reinforcement. This eventually weakens the yarn material. Since hose degradation is from the inside out, it is difficult to detect.

To avoid this "Recognizable, but not predictable" failure mode, Gates recommends a safe service life of four years for all coolant carrying hoses, especially the upper radiator, bypass and heater hoses.

In addition, heater hoses generally show less damage severity compared to upper radiator hoses, but more damage compared to lower radiator hoses.

FOOD LOVERS DIET

To introduce a new approach to dieting, free samples were given to 50 people. With The Omicron Diet, one man lost 14 pounds in 5 days and one woman lost 18 pounds in 10 days. The average weight loss was over a pound a day for women and over 2 pounds a day for men. The Omicron Diet is a revolutionary new concept for unbelievably fast weight loss developed and clinically proven by National Dietary Research of Washington, D.C. This significant breakthrough in metabolic weight control was made possible by the utilization of biological information over-looked by other diet programs. With a formulation of natural enzymes along with real food, you shed unwanted pounds extremely rapidly and safely. Now available:

Melissa Jo Young to be crowned Queen.

Young named Miss Congeniality

Melissa Jo Young was named Miss Congeniality 1993-94, Illinois Jobs Daughters in a contest held in Springfield, Ill.

Each contestant was tested, interviewed and assessed on the identical basis of personality, wholesomeness, neatness, poise, grooming and the degree of knowledge of Jobs Daughters.

The current ritual was evaluated.

Besides being Miss Congeniality for Miss Illinois Jobs Daughters, Melissa is Senior Princess for Bethel No. 43.

She will be honored queen in December of this year.

She will be a senior this fall, and is active in church and school activities and has been employed at the commissary of the Charles Melvin Price Support Center since the age of 14.

Melissa is the daughter of Barbara Jo Young and John W. Andrew.

She is the granddaughter of Pearl L. Kennerly.

Horoscope

Wednesday, Aug. 4

It's always special when Mercury trines Pluto (a few times a year); dig into financial planning, investigating new insurance plans. Or do a little psychological analysis, of yourself or whomever interests you, alone or with help from your favorite shrink, your spouse or a smart buddy. Go through old photos or videotapes. Get a health problem diagnosed; doctors' intuition is accurate.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Aug. 4) New friends have been entering your life all year; now they begin to open doors and bring new chances your way. Job conditions improve remarkably in September; watch for fast-breaking opportunities. In October, powerful friends increase your status. In November, consider relocating. In December, creative thinking changes your approach to life.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Face in-depth issues squarely, including that slip-slide status of credit or financial investment; the picture is brighter than you think. Workable health plan is available; a good diet plays a part.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is the perfect moment to establish or restore harmony in a love relationship. Don't hesitate to ask for a date, a favor or a bigger budget for your job project; if turned down, smile as if it's their loss.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) Investigate possibilities for the future; follow up last week's job-seeking efforts, and you'll be surprised how positive the results are. Improved relations with family ease your mind and add to security.

CANCER (June 22-July 22) Home ownership is today's subject, and so are kids and how to guide them without breaking their spirit. Chats with their friends' parents or with a teacher make big difference. You're very influential now; be charming.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Instill confidence in those you work with; it makes you indispensable, as well as popular. A child or parent may be planning to fly the coop; realize that the ties that bind will also stretch around the globe.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Cooperation is the key. Never mind about an envious co-worker; you can dissolve this bad attitude with a little kindness and make a valuable friend. A new system for routine may save much time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Effective action taken in the past has given you a reputation as a trouble-shooter; now you're given another problem to solve. Routine is easily handled, details fall into place and co-workers are at your command.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) Loyal buddy goes to bat on your behalf. A child looks up to you; be a guide through confusing moments. Tonight, make new moves in a budding romance. Be generous with help and advice, especially to Librans.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) An eligible newcomer is turning your head, if you're single, or perhaps a young person is piquing your interest in new subjects. Don't be biased due to past experience; keep an open mind. Love is in the air.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Even the most difficult friend, neighbor or spouse succumbs to your charm, so give that little-one-lost look, and get all the help you need. Tonight, phone calls or letters yield delightful news.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Your expert opinion is sought, but your advice is based on a hunch. Your intuition is strong, especially if you're listening to your heart, remembering dreams and staying close to your values. Aries has a secret.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Get the green light on travel plans, especially honeymoons or other romantically related journeys. Tonight, give love a chance to explain before jumping to conclusions. Hold a nervous Virgo's hand.

Eyes inspire many songs

By Bill Beggs
Correspondent

THE EYES HAVE IT: The windows to the soul rank right up there with the heart as the anatomical feature most immortalized in songs.

1. Who hit No. 4 on Billboard's Hot 100 in early 1988 with "Hungry Eyes"?
2. What Kim Carnes song held No. 1 for nine weeks in spring 1981?
3. Who hit No. 5 in 1980 with "Sexy Eyes"?
4. What Guess Who song hit No. 6 in spring 1969?
5. Who hit No. 4 in 1984 with "Eyes Without A Face"?

ANSWERS: 1. Eric Carmen 2. "Bette Davis Eyes" 3. Dr. Hook 4. "These Eyes" 5. Billy Idol

'Rising Sun' is good mystery

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

Chalk up another novel-to-film success with the release of "Rising Sun" based on Michael Crichton's best-selling book published in 1992.

Although the novel was accused of Japan-bashing, the film version is cautious on that issue. The book's regular dissertations on Japan as a wicked corporate civilization are missing from the movie.

Sean Connery and Wesley Snipes portray Los Angeles Police Department detectives in the movie. They are assigned to investigate the murder of an American woman that occurred in the boardroom of a Japanese corporation located in downtown Los Angeles.

"Rising Sun" is a high-tech, high-talk movie. A lot of time in this film is devoted to discussing the action, as well as showing it. Connery gets to ply his playfully sarcastic acting style on a regular basis. Snipes' part seems to hold him down. But on balance, "Rising Sun" is glossy entertainment with a timely theme, cultural mysteries and a satisfying, if somewhat disordered, resolution.

"Rising Sun is rated R for language and violence. It has a running time of 129 minutes.
